

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. You can search through the full text of this book on the web at <http://books.google.com/>

IT IS UNUSUAL

in the publishing world to publish two novels in January and to continue advertising them in trade journals so long afterward; but part of the CLODE idea is in keeping books alive. Both KARL GRIER, by Louis Tracy, and THE ARNCLIFFE PUZZLE, by Gordon Holmes, are worth being brought to the attention of your customers.

They are splendid reading for any season, and therefore are particularly good for increasing your summer sales.

THE LATE TENANT

Gordon Holmes' new story will be published in September.

NOTES IN SEASON.

THOMAS Y. CROWELL & Co. have just brought out in their unique First Folio Shakespeare edition, "Twelfth Night, or, What You Will!"

THE AUTHORS AND NEWSPAPERS ASSOCIATION, New York City, have just ready their second novel, "The Man Between," by Amelia E. Barr. Of this book, as of their first book, "A Rock in the Baltic," by Robert Barr, only a special edition will be made exclusively for their selling agents—one in each city.

THE G. W. DILLINGHAM COMPANY will publish in August, on the completion of its run as a serial in The Critic, "The Lion and the Mouse," by Charles Klein, author of "The Music Master," etc. The advance orders for the novel are reported to be extraordinarily large, practically the whole of the first edition being already disposed of. This is largely due, of course, to the success of the play. Next season no fewer than four dramatic companies will be presenting the piece in different parts of the United States, and it will probably run another year in New York. The novelization has been made by Charles Klein and Arthur Hornblow, and the book will be illustrated with wash drawings by Stuart Travis.

HERBERT B. TURNER & Co. have in preparation a book entitled "Proofs of Life After Death," a collation, by Robert J. Thompson, of opinions of eminent scientists as to what in their minds are the strongest reasons, outside of theology, of the proofs of immortality. Among those quoted are the late Professor Shaler, Professor S. P. Langley, Professor S. Newcomb, Sir Oliver Lodge, Professor Charles Richet, Sir William Crookes, Professor William James, Professor C. Lombroso, Professor Camille Flammarion, Professor Brunot, Professor Th. Flournoy, Professor Hyslop, and many others. They have also in preparation a book entitled "The Historical Bases of Religions—Primitive, Babylonian and Jewish," by Hiram Chellis Brown. It is a comprehensive survey of evolution of the religious conception from primitive man to Christianity, written from the standpoint of higher criticism. The manuscript has been read and stamped with approval by scholars in this field.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS will publish this month a novel entitled "The Shock of Battle," by Patrick Vaux, who bases a thrilling story upon an imaginary war between Great Britain and Germany, shortly after the opening of the Panama Canal; "The Connecticut River, and the Valley of the Connecticut, three hundred and fifty miles from mountain to sea," by Edwin M. Bacon, a new volume in the Historic Rivers Series, with about 100 illustrations; "The Muscles of the Eye," by Dr. Lucien Howe, an important work, in two volumes, dealing exhaustively with the surgical anatomy and the pathology of the muscles of the eye, the various methods of testing the eyes and the treatment of so-called eye strain, etc., with upwards of 300 illustrations and a bibliography of over 2400 articles carefully classified; "The Interpretation of Nature," by Dr. C. Lloyd Morgan, a philosophical treatise in which the author aims to show that "a belief in purpose as the causal reality of which nature is an expression is not inconsistent with a full and whole-hearted acceptance of the explanations of naturalism within their appropriate sphere"; also, in the Crown Theological Library, a work on "Hebrew Religion to the Establishment of Judaism Under Ezra," by the Rev. William E. Addis, a historical study of the religion of the Jews from the earliest times on well into the fourth century.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

☞ The prices of net books published under the rules of the American Publishers' Association are preceded in this list by a double asterisk , and the word net follows the price. The prices of fiction (not net) published under the rules are preceded by a dagger †. The prices of net books not covered by the rules, whether published by members of the American Publishers' Association or not, are preceded by a single asterisk, and the word net follows the price. ☞

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

Gratacap, L: Pope. A woman of the ice age. N. Y., Brentano's, 1906. c. 3+230 p. O. cl., $1 net.

A love tale of prehistoric times, its date being "thirty thousand years, more or less, before the birth of Christ." The heroine is Lhatlo, the girl of the Sierras, the woman of the Ice Age, living in the warm Fair Land in North America. The hero is Ogga, an ivory hunter. Both are far in advance in speech and thoughts to the prehistoric human being of science. Prehistoric animals of huge size and fierce instincts invade the warm country of the couple's home. The story is one of hunger and danger, elemental passion and thrilling adventure.

William Poel, who arranged the two plays here given, is Director of the Elizabethan Stage Society. In his introduction he says: "These two plays are modified versions of older ones, and the second of them is in all probability a composition by Shakespeare. It originally formed a part of the early chronicle play, 'Edward the Third,' a drama which can be said to have small dramatic or poetic merit beyond the love-scene supplied by Shakespeare. For this reason it is now separated from the rest of the chronicle so as to form a play complete in itself, and it has been given besides an independent title. The first play is also renamed because it has been almost entirely reconstructed to allow of its being acted on the modern stage. Both dramas deal with the subject of unlawful love."

Sergeant, Philip Washington. Jerome Bonaparte, the burlesque Napoleon: being the story of the life and the kingship of the youngest brother of Napoleon the Great. N. Y., Brentano's, 1906. 14+383 p. por. O. cl., $3 net.

The author confines himself entirely to the private life of Jerome Bonaparte, Napoleon's youngest brother, the husband of Miss Elizabeth Patterson—and the King of Westphalia. He tells of his follies and vices, his extravagance and intrigues. He aims to tell the truth without bitterness, and succeeds in presenting a striking portrait of a man in whose life little was hidden. By the author of "The courtships of Catherine the Great."

Seawall, J. Smith. The logbook of the captain's clerk: adventures in the China seas, [1852-1854.] Bangor, Me., [E. F. Dillingham,] 1905. c. 12+278 p. 12°, cl., $1.

Spargo, J. Socialism: a summary and interpretation of socialistic principles. N. Y., Macmillan, 1906. [Je.] c. 16+257 p. D. cl., $1.25.

The author of "The bitter cry of the children" and "The socialists; who they are and what they stand for" purposes to state in popular language what socialism really means and what it does not mean. He has spent many years in the propaganda of socialism on two continents as lecturer to all classes of audiences. Gives much biographical matter relating to Owen, Marx and others identified with socialism. He endeavors "to state socialism constructively without utopian romanticism." Appendix gives National Platform of the Socialist Party of America as adopted by the Chicago Convention in 1904.

United States. Navy Dept. Courts-martial at the Naval Academy: letter from the acting secretary of the navy, transmitting copies of the records and the evidence in full in the courts-martial recently held at the Naval Academy in the cases of Midshipmen Marzoni and Mayo, showing the final action taken by the department, pursuant to Senate Resolution no. 71. Wash., D. C., [U. S. Office of the Superintendent of Documents,] 1906. 149 p. 8°, (59th United States Congress, Senate document.) pap., 10 c.

Veatch, Arthur Clifford, Schlichter, C. S., Bowman, Isaiah, and others. Underground water resources of Long Island. Wash., D. C., [U. S. Office of the Superintendent of Documents,] 1906. 4°, (Department of the Interior, Geological Survey, professional pap.) pap., $1.25.

The field work upon which this report is based formed a part of a detailed investigation of the geology and water resources of Long Island conducted by Mr. M. L. Fuller, chief of the eastern section of the division of hydrology, assisted by Mr. Veatch, to whom was given the immediate supervision of problems relating to underground waters. The paper deals with an area in which the problems relating to underground waters are of great importance, especially as they affect city and town supplies. Great interest is manifested in such waters throughout the area, and the report is the result of unusually detailed work.

Viljoen, Benjamin Johannis, General. An exiled general, by Ben J. Viljoen, general late Boer forces, South Africa. [2 pts. in 1 v.] St. Louis, Mo., A. Noble Printing Co., 1906. c. 312 p. il. por. D. cl., $1.50.

General Viljoen was captured by the British towards the end of the Boer War and exiled to St. Helena. While there he wrote the history of the disastrous war which forms pt. 1 of the book. It is now revised since he is living in New Mexico and needs not fear the censure of his British captors. The second part treats of the future of the Boer nation and gives a quiet estimate of the facts of the war and of the underlying causes which brought it about. The book is published wholly in the interest of destitute Boers.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

JULY 7, 1906.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter for advertising pages should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE LONDON TIMES BOOK CLUB.

A LONDON syndicate operating under the cover of an organization named the Times Book Club, ostensibly a circulating library scheme backed by The Times, has been playing havoc with the book business in London for the past month or two, and is now preparing to invade Scotland on the same lines. The plan of the syndicate seems to be first to stimulate the circulation of The Times by supplying books through a circulating library scheme to bona fide yearly subscribers to The Times, which obtains the books from publishers at favorable rates. Having fulfilled their function in this direction, the syndicate recoups itself by throwing the books on the market a few months after publication on the pretext that as they have been used by the members of the club they have become second-hand or shelf-worn. This would be bad enough if the books so offered were restricted to those actually circulated by the club; but it seems that the syndicate has also dragged the market for remainders in all quarters in order to make as big a showing as possible at its so-called "rubbish sale," at which several weeks ago 600,000 books, good, bad and indifferent, were slaughtered at prices ranging from five pence upwards. The result was a temporary paralysis of not only the booktrade, but also of the circulating library trade, as both the booksellers and the libraries in and near London withheld their orders for new books until they might learn how their interests would be protected in the future.

The Publishers' Association of Great Britain, realizing that the course of The Times Book Club, if persisted in, would make book-selling practically impossible and publishing still less profitable, is seeking to enforce a six months' limit for the sale of second-hand net books. The principal libraries at once expressed their willingness to adhere to such a rule, but The Times Book Club declined, preferring to consider a book as second-hand "where it has been used by more than two subscribers, and when it is returned in such a state that it cannot be sold as a new book," notwithstanding this assertion by "The Thunderer," the Times Book Club gives its published assurance that the copies sold by it will be "in every respect as good as new." While the Publishers' Association is further considering how to cope with this difficulty, Macmillan & Co., Ltd., alive to the danger, and intent upon guarding the interests of their constituents, have issued the following notice to the trade:

"Messrs. Macmillan & Co., Ltd., regret to find that copies of 'The Life of Lord Randolph Churchill,' which was published less than five months ago, are being offered for sale by the managers of The Times Book Club at a very great reduction from the published price.

"As the book is being advertised by The Times Book Club at the head of a list of 'remainders,' the publishers fear that an impression prevails that this work, which is one of the most important of their recent publications, has been 'sold off' at waste-paper price. As such an impression would be most damaging to them as publishers, Messrs. Macmillan & Co. wish it to be understood that this is not the case. The Times Book Club bought a considerable number of copies of this book at ordinary library rates. The copies now offered are presumably those which have been in use in the circulating library.

"In the absence of any agreement as to the time for which a bookseller must have had a copy of a net book in his possession before he can offer it at a reduced price as a 'bona fide remainder,' it is difficult to see how a publisher is to prevent a dealer from selling a book at less than it cost him to buy; but Messrs. Macmillan wish it to be understood that they have not been consenting parties to the transaction referred to above.

"Any retail bookseller having an account with Messrs. Macmillan who has bought a copy of 'Lord Randolph Churchill' from them, and finds himself unable to dispose of it in consequence of the Times advertisements, is invited to communicate with them."

The situation is a grave one for the English booktrade and should also be studied in advance by the American booktrade, as it is not unlikely that the scheme above described will find imitators in this country. As the London Bookseller, in commenting on the question, says: "Unless the publishers unite and put their foot down to prevent this unfair dealing, it is clear that no bookseller will be able to stock a new book of importance, if he is to be faced by the possibility, indeed it would seem the probability, of its being sold by the Times Book Club at remainder prices in the course of a few months. Such uncertainty makes immediate drastic action on the part of all the publishers imperative."

STATE OF PRINTING IN AMERICA IN THE 18TH CENTURY.

CHARLES EVANS, Rogers Park, Chicago, Ill., has just brought out the third volume of his interesting "American Bibliography," covering the period from 1751 to 1764. This period, to quote from Mr. Evans's preface, "finds the art of printing, after one hundred and twenty-five years from its introduction, in 1639, finally established in all of the thirteen original States of the American Union; and it may be of interest to briefly summarize by whom the first presses were founded, and the times and places where the introduction of printing occurred in the several American Colonies. In chronological order this record is as follows: First, Massachusetts, at Cambridge, by Stephen Daye, in 1639; Second, Pennsylvania, at Philadelphia, by William Bradford, in 1685; third, New York, at New York City, by William Bradford, in 1693; fourth, Connecticut, at New London, by Thomas Short, in 1709; fifth, Maryland, at Annapolis, by William Parks, in 1726; sixth, Rhode Island, at Newport, by James Franklin, in 1727; seventh, Virginia, at Williamsburgh, by William Parks, in 1730; eighth, South Carolina, at Charleston, by Eleazer Phillips, Jr., in 1732; ninth, North Carolina, at Newbern, by James Davis, in 1751; tenth, New Jersey, at Woodbridge, by James Parker, in 1755; eleventh, New Hampshire, at Portsmouth, by Daniel Fowle, in 1756; twelfth, Delaware, at Wilmington, by James Adams, in 1761; thirteenth, Georgia, at Savannah, by James Johnston, in 1762. How closely connected in interests the communities in each province were may be inferred from the fact that during the century and a quarter the printing press had been established in only twenty-three centres, of which Pennsylvania had six, Connecticut three; Massachusetts, Rhode Island and North Carolina two each, and the remaining provinces only the centre where printing was begun. How populous these communities were may be estimated from the statement of Ezra Stiles, in his sermon on Christian union, in 1760, that: 'Four thousand British planters settled in New England, and in one hundred and twenty years their posterity are increased to five thousand souls.'

"The introduction of printing during the eighteenth century was usually begun, or followed soon after, by the publication of a newspaper. Up to the close of the present volume about sixty newspapers had been established and continued for varying periods of publication. Of this number four were established in Connecticut, one in Delaware, one in Georgia, two in Maryland, eleven in Massachusetts, one in New Hampshire, thirteen in New York, three in North Carolina, fifteen in Pennsylvania, three in Rhode Island, four in South Carolina, and one in Virginia. Of all the colonies, New Jersey alone was without a newspaper, and, it may be added, without a common centre for one, for Woodbridge, where James Parker had established his press, was chosen as his birthplace, and not for its availability as a centre for publication. A phase of their publication, worthy of more extended notice, is the adaptability shown by the mothers and wives in assuming the duties of editorship of these journals when death or disaster overcame their husbands or sons. Such women as Cornelia Bradford, at Philadelphia; Catherine Zenger, at New York; Margaret Draper, at Boston; Anne Franklin and Ann Barber, at Newport; Sarah Goddard, at Providence; Mistress Watson, at Hartford; Anne Catharine Green, at Annapolis, and Elizabeth and Anne Timothy, at Charleston, illustrate the high type of colonial womanhood and the mutual interdependence of the family relations in pioneer times. While the trial of John Peter Zenger in New York, in 1735, has established the principle of the freedom of the press in that colony, the experiences of the Rev. Dr. William Smith in Pennsylvania, in 1758; of Daniel Fowle in Massachusetts, in 1754, and John Wilkes in London, in 1763, shows that the principle was not yet of universal application.

THE AUSTRALIAN COMMONWEALTH COPYRIGHT ACT.

THE Australian Commonwealth Copyright Act, 1905, which received the royal assent last month, is to be proclaimed and pass into law at once. "With some claims to rank as a Code," the London Academy says, "the Act undoubtedly marks an epoch in the history of Colonial Copyright. It effects, on the lines of Lord Monkswell's Literary and Artistic Copyright Bills, many notable reforms. Copyright includes the right of abridgment, dramatization and translation. As well as performing right in dramatic and musical works, a lecturing right is created as regards both sermons and lectures. The duration of artistic copyright is assimilated to that of literary copyright, thus establishing homogeneity, but, unfortunately, in the place of the proposed period of Lord Monkswell's Bills—the author's life and thirty years—the old and cumbrous term of life and seven years or forty-two years, whichever be the longer period, has been most unaccountably selected.

"Among other details . . . 'Magazine Copyright' endures for one year only instead of twenty-eight years, as under the Imperial Act of 1842, and the rights of proprietors are strictly limited to publication in their own periodicals. Translations, or abridgments, not the work of the author, must be so declared on the title-page, and after ten years the right of translation, unless exercised, lapses. Notices are made compulsory in the cases of the reservation of performing right in dramatic and musical works. The right of search and seizure is conferred in the case of pirated copies, and penalties provided may be recovered summarily. A simple system of registration is provided for the Commonwealth, but as in England, is only necessary before action brought.

"The Act . . . contains a 'manufacturing clause.' Primarily, its benefits are conferred upon books, etc., whether by British subjects or not, 'printed from type set up in Australia or plates made therefrom or from plates and negatives made in Australia in cases where type is not necessarily used'—an exception which seems to require elucidation. Publication, performance, or delivery must take place either simultaneously with or within fourteen days of first publication, etc., elsewhere. The integrity of Imperial Copyright, of the Berne Convention and International arrangements made by the Imperial Government is, however, sufficiently safeguarded by Part vi., Section 62, which admits literary, musical, dramatic or artistic works 'entitled to protection in Australia by virtue of any Act of the Parliament of the United Kingdom' to the same protection as other works under the Act.

"Some doubts seem to be held as to the operation of this section, but it obviously includes all works embraced by the International Copyright Act, 1886, and all works simultaneously published in England with first publication elsewhere. The condition which is attached to this protection is 'registration under this part of the Act' and, presumably, the deposit under Sections 75 (1) and (2) of two copies of every book and one, or a photograph, of any work of art required from 'every person applying for registration.' The position of the United States is, therefore, unaffected by the Act, but remains exactly as before. Subject to simultaneous publication in the British Empire, American works can be protected in Australia in the same way as British works."

DUFFIELD & COMPANY.

ANNOUNCEMENT is made that the publishing house of Fox, Duffield & Company, from which Mr. R. K. Fox has retired, will hereafter be known as Duffield & Company.

This corporation, organized a little more than three years ago under the laws of the State of New York, has now some three hundred books in its catalogue, including titles acquired by the purchase of the business of Herbert S. Stone & Company, of Chicago. Pitts Duffield is president and treasurer of the company, Frederick A. Richardson is vice-president, and Kenneth G. Duffield secretary.

COMMUNICATIONS.

A. G. SEILER STILL IN BUSINESS.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: I take this means of notifying the trade that I have sold to M. A. Goldrich my branch store known as the New York University Book Store. Mr. Goldrich having printed on his stationery "Successor to A. G. Seiler" has led some dealers to infer that I have entirely sold out, which is not the case. I have sold only the above-mentioned branch in order to devote my energy to my main store and another store which I have recently purchased. Therefore I anticipate doing even a greater business with you than heretofore.

A. G. SEILER.

1222 AMSTERDAM AVE., NEW YORK, June 29, 1906.

UNPROFITABLE BOOKSELLING.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: I was much pleased to see the article by Mr. Clark, of Boston, on "Unprofitable Bookselling" in the WEEKLY. I am in the business again as a matter of pride in my city, and to stay with my city, but I realize that there is no prospect of my making more than the living of a good bricklayer. The absolute folly of trying to maintain publishers' prices on new books in competition with $1.08 prices, I am aware of; yet to me it appears degrading to place myself in the position of a huckster crying, "Cheap! cheap! cheap! Buy my $1.50 books for $1.08! Walk up, gentlemen, trade with me, trade with me!" No, I cannot do it. Even now, here in a city that is in ruins, the shrill, unmanly screech of "cut-rates" is in the air. The book trade will never be one of decent remuneration until we all—bookseller and publisher alike—and I am both, conduct our business in a dignified manner.

I could go on with this subject for a week and then not exhaust my feeling of pity for a business that cannot show a prosperous dealer in New York, Boston, Chicago, St. Louis, New Orleans, Baltimore, Buffalo, Philadelphia, San Francisco, or in any city in the Union. Some may think they are prosperous; but that is again more than pitiful, as their idea of prosperous business is peculiar. I defy the bookseller in any city in all this great country to state that his business is prosperous, and at the same time to state the number of his employees and the salary he pays them. I do not think there is any retail book house in the United States that pays a salary to the intelligent help that is required that would not be ashamed to see the salaries given as a whole—each individual salary paid in the house—published to the world. It is, I again say it, pitiful!

A. M. ROBERTSON.

SIR WALTER SCOTT PROPHECIES LITTLE LIBRARY BOOKS.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: That Sir Walter Scott was book-wise beyond most mortals every one who reads his work must recognize, but it is only the bookman who can appreciate how great was his book wisdom. An example of it occurs in the opening phrases of the tenth chapter of "Rob Roy," where may be found a curious and interesting prophecy, or rather a legitimate inference as to the future of books, which has been fully justified by the facts. It is as follows:

"The library at Osbaldistone Hall was a gloomy room whose antique oaked shelves bent beneath the weight of the ponderous folios so dear to the seventeenth century, from which, under favor be it spoken, we have distilled matter for our quartos and octavos, and which, once more subjected to the alembic, may, should our sons be yet more frivolous than ourselves, be still further reduced into duodecimos and pamphlets."

Whether we are more frivolous than in Scott's time or no need not be discussed, but the tendency Sir Walter Scott foresaw has found ample expression in the various little libraries that have been so conspicuous in our bookstores of late years. Although miniature books have been an occasional fad with printers for more than a hundred years, (there occurs to me in this connection the "Thumb Bible," of which an example exists in the Boston Public Library, and of which I have the good fortune to possess another; and also the famous "Circle of the Sciences," published by John Newbery,) it is, I think, only in these later years that the tendency to the diminutive books which Sir Walter Scott foresaw has become more generally marked.

CHARLES WELSH.

WINTHROP, MASS., June 23, 1906.

[It may interest our readers to read in connection with this, Scott's great contemporary, Napoleon I.'s ideas of libraries in little, as described by James Westfall Thompson, in his article "Napoleon as a Booklover," in the July Atlantic.—ED. P. W.]

OBITUARY NOTES.

ANDREW VARICK STOUT ANTHONY, artist, engraver and writer, died July 2, at the home of his son-in-law, Dr. Henry C. Perkins, at West Newton, Mass. Mr. Anthony was born in New York City in 1838. After his studies were completed he devoted himself to wood engraving, in which branch of art he became a leader. From 1866 to 1889 he had sole charge of the illustrated work issued by Ticknor & Fields and their successors, during which time he projected and superintended the quarto-illustrated edition of Longfellow's works. He also edited for them Young Folks and Every Saturday. Since 1894 he was connected with the literary department of Harper & Brothers. Mr. Anthony was a frequent contributor to the magazines and many of his articles he illustrated himself. He was one of the foundation members of the New York Water Color Society and one of the founders of the St. Botolph Club of Boston.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE Literary Digest has absorbed Public Opinion and will accordingly cover a larger field.

THE Search Light, an excellent digest of the news of the week, has suspended publication.

MAXIM GORKY will give his impressions of America in the midsummer issue of Appleton's Magazine.

The Studio for July contains in its American Section an article on the Rembrandt Tercentenary. Among the special inserts is a reproduction of Rembrandt's famous painting, "The Night Watch."

Appleton's Magazine has succeeded Appleton's Booklovers' Magazine, and with the July number its price has been lowered from twenty-five to fifteen cents the number. A year ago the Appletons bought the Booklovers' Magazine and assumed and paid all its obligations. The name Booklovers has been gradually allowed to vanish and that of Appleton's to increase.

H. G. WELLS, the English novelist and author of "When the Sleeper Wakes," and other works of imaginative prophecy, has just completed a book which will be of interest to his American readers, as it deals with his impressions of life and customs in American communities. Mr. Wells has but recently returned to England from his visit to this country, where the material for the volume was accumulated. Serial rights have been secured by Harper's Weekly, and publication will begin with the issue of July 14, under the title of "The Future in America." Vernon Howe Bailey and E. V. Nadherny are the artists selected to illustrate Mr. Wells's striking work.

KATHARINE LEE BATES, head of the department of English literature at Wellesley College, sailed on the Arabic from Boston July 5 for Liverpool. By automobile she will tour the western counties of England from the lake country to Cornwall, accompanied by Katherine A. Coman, of the Wellesley Department of Economics. Miss Coman will take a number of photographs and Miss Bates undertakes this trip through one of the most interesting sections of England on commission to contribute a series of nine articles to the Chautauquan Magazine, entitled "A Reading Journey in Famous English Counties." The magazine series will appear as a part of "The Chautauqua Home Reading Course" for the year of English topics beginning in September.

BUSINESS NOTES.

DALLAS, TEX.—An involuntary petition in bankruptcy has been filed against the Ginn, Myers & Perry Book and Stationery Company.

DENVER, COLO.—H. C. Shields, bookseller, has sold out to D. L. Eddy.

MT. VERNON, MO.—T. J. Alexander, bookseller, has sold out to George Wilson.

OAKLAND, CAL.—Woods's Old Book Store has been taken over by Dewitt & Snelling.

RED OAK, IA.—Miss Lucille M. Ryan, not Lyon, as noted in our issue for June 1, has purchased an interest in the City Book Store, (John J. Shuey's,) and is now the managing partner.

ROCHESTER, N. H.—Ezra S. Smart, bookseller, has been succeeded by T. W. Osgood.

WAYNE, NEB.—Felker & Jones, booksellers, have dissolved partnership.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

THE Milo'ske Boghandel, Odense, Denmark, has just brought out a second edition of Andreas Dølleris's "Danmarks Boghandlere," a biographical list of Danish booksellers, the first edition of which was brought out in 1893. The new edition contains the sketches of 534 booksellers, covering every detail of their personal history, including even that of their parents' and wives' relations, and of their children if employed in the book business. (382 p. 8°, 7.50 kr.)

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

FREDERICK WARNE & Co. have applied for membership in the Stationers' Board of Trade.

WERNER LAURIE, London, will publish shortly a volume of reminiscences entitled "My Friends the French," by Robert H. Sherard.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will bring out early in September the first and second volumes of the new and complete edition of Ibsen's works.

THE MERCHANTS' HELPS PUBLISHING CO., Delhi, N. Y., has published a suggestive little book entitled "Talks by an Old Storekeeper," by Frank Farrington, author of "Retail Advertising," etc.

THE AMERICAN LIBRARY ASSOCIATION at its annual conference at Narragansett Pier, on July 4, formed a Library Copyright League to guard the interests of libraries in the importation of copyright books issued abroad.

LONGMANS, GREEN & Co. have in press a work by Dr. James Donaldson, entitled "Woman—her position and influence in ancient Greece and Rome and among the early Christians;" also, "Liberty, and Other Sermons," by the Right Rev. Charles H. Brent, Bishop of the Philippines.

THEODORE E. SCHULTE, Twenty-Third Street and Lexington Avenue, New York City, has published Dr. Madison C. Peters's recent sermons addressed to women on "The Sins of Smart Society." The topics dealt with include drinking, card-playing, extravagance and pleasure-seeking as a profession.

ROBERT GRIER COOKE is publishing "In the House of Her Friends," a story of life in college circles by an anonymous writer. This is not written from the point of view of the student. It gives the opinions of each person connected with the college, and includes many character drawings.

THE CENTURY Co. will issue in the autumn "The Chateaux of Touraine," with text by Maria Hornor Lansdale, pictures in color by Jules Guérin and photographs in tint. It will be a very handsome book and will be issued as a companion volume to "Italian Villas," by Mrs. Edith Wharton, illustrated by Maxfield Parrish.

LEMCKE & BUECHNER, 11 East Seventeenth Street, New York City, have made arrangements to publish W. Victor's "Shakespeare's Pronunciation," consisting of two separate volumes—"A Shakespeare Phonology, with a Rime-Index to the Poems as a Pronouncing Vocabulary," and "A Shakespeare Reader in the Old Spelling, and with a Phonetic Transcription."

"THE JUNGLE" has made a record as a "best seller." It was published late in February with scarcely any advance sales, yet 85,000 copies have been printed to date. Five editions have been published in England, six in Canada and two in Australia. In addition to the list of languages into which it has been translated and in which it has been published, both Swedish and Danish have been added.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY have added to their Medieval Town Series a revised edition of Thomas Okey's book, "The Story of Paris," which originally appeared in 1904. The book has numerous drawings by Katherine Kimball and many reproductions of photographs and maps. The first part gives the "story" of Paris, the second is a sort of guide through the city, for the benefit of the inexperienced visitor.

"BILLY WHISKERS' FRIENDS," by Frances Trego Montgomery, author of "Billy Whiskers' Kids," etc., is to be published August 1 by Brewer-Barse & Co., Chicago, for whom the Reilly & Britton Co. are sole selling agents. The book is after the style of Mrs. Montgomery's other "Billy Whiskers" books, but more elaborately illustrated, having six full-page illustrations in colors and over fifty text pictures and ornamental designs in black-and-white.

THE MAYHEW PUBLISHING COMPANY, of Boston, will publish next month a humorous volume entitled "The Asbestos Society of Sinners," by Lawrence Daniel Fogg, a well known magazine writer and journalist. The book, which is dedicated to John Kendrick Bangs, is a newspaper man's account of a trip to Hades, where he interviewed "Boss" Tweed, Henry VIII., Sherlock Holmes, Shakespeare, Washington, Methuselah, Adam, Eve, and Cain.

LOTHROP, LEE & SHEPARD Co. have in preparation two new books by George Cary Eggleston. One of these is a story of New York life, entitled "Blind Alleys," dealing not with the slums or with the city's exceptional population, but depicting the more typical and significant aspects of life in the great city and those who constitute its real population. The book is illustrated by E. Pollack. The other book, entitled "Jack Shelby," is for boys, and gives much of the author's own experiences and those of his brother, the late Edward Eggleston, in Clifty County, Ind., about sixty years ago.

HARPER & BROTHERS will publish on the 12th inst. Margaret Deland's latest work, "The Awakening of Helena Richie," the story of the birth of a woman's soul, of her realization and renunciation of the past through the unconscious influence of a little child, which strikes deep into the foundations of human sympathy. The background of the story is peaceful old Chester, with its delightful and whimsical old Dr. Lavendar, Willy King, and other old acquaintances. They will publish at the same time the fourth volume in Mark Twain's Library of Humor, under the apt title, "A Little Nonsense." Among the contributors are: Bret Harte, C. D. Warner, R. J. Burdette, "Artemus Ward," J. K. Bangs, Henry A. Shute, Owen Wister, W. D. Howells, Guy Wetmore Carryl, George Ade, J. J. Roche, R. H. Munkittrick, "Bill Nye," S. E. Kiser, "Mr. Dooley," and others. Mark Twain himself is represented by three humorous stories.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS, in their Subscription Department, have in preparation a new issue of "The Works of James Fenimore Cooper," in thirty-three handsome volumes, to be entitled The Iroquois Edition. The edition will have a general introduction by William Crary Brownell, the well-known critic, in which is presented a critical estimate of the position secured by Cooper's writings in the literature of the United States and of the world. It will also include the story of Ned Myers, which does not find place in previous sets, and the full series of the original steel engravings by F. O. C. Darley, who was acknowledged to be the leading draftsman of his generation in connection with the earlier pioneer life of the country, and whose designs were accepted by Cooper himself as most thoroughly characteristic and fitting illustrations for the text of the famous romances. Together with these plates, have been included a series of reproductions in photogravure from designs specially prepared for Cooper's volumes by R. F. Zogbaum, J. T. Richards, H. Sandham, and others. Mr. Brownell's introduction, which was first published, in condensed form, in Scribner's Monthly for April this year, has been printed separately in a neat pamphlet. It has been accepted by critics generally as constituting the most discriminating and trustworthy estimate of the work of America's great romancer.

REILLY & BRITTON's new illustrated catalogue for 1906 shows a large increase in their line. They announce twenty-four new publications for this year, which together with their previous list, makes their line remarkably attractive and strong. The big book in their forthcoming list is, of course, L. Frank Baum's "John Dough and the Cherub," already described by us. Other attractive books are "Annabel," a novel for young folks, by Suzanne Metcalf; "Sam Steele's Adventures on Land and Sea," by Captain Hug Fitzgerald, the first of a series of books for boys; "Aunt Jane's Nieces," by Edith Van Dyne, the initial volume of a new series of books for girls. Following the style of "The Land of Oz," but in miniature form, is a series of six books entitled The Twinkle Tales, all by Laura Bancroft. The titles are "Prairie-Dog Town," "Mr. Woodchuck," "Bandit Jim Crow," "Twinkle's Enchantment," "Sugar-Loaf Mountain" and "Prince Mud-Turtle." In a sense these are nature stories, and have been illustrated in colors by Maginal Enright. "Tony Tompkins—Lion Tamer," by Harriet Scott Barber, is a story of heart interest for those who love children. This is a gift book, sympathetically illustrated by Clyde J. Newman. "Sweethearts Always" is a dainty gift book containing poems of love compiled and arranged by Janet Madison. Each poem is enclosed in a heart-shaped wreath of forget-me-nots in two colors, while the book is illustrated with twelve duotone pictures by H. Putnam Hall. It is also embellished with many designs. At the bottom of each page is a motto or posy ring such as was in olden times engraved in engagement or wedding rings. "Inaugural Addresses," brought out in two volumes from the private plates of the Lakeside Press, contains the inaugural messages of the Presidents of the United States from Washington to Roosevelt, edited by John Vance Cheney. This series of patriotic classics will also contain a one-volume edition of the "Autobiography of Benjamin Franklin" in semi de luxe style.

PICK-UPS.

A DEAD ONE.

BREATHES there a man with soul so dead
Who never to himself has said:
"My trade of late is getting bad;
I'll try another ten-inch ad."
If such there be, go mark him well;
For him no bank account shall swell,
No angel watch the golden stair
To welcome home the millionaire.
The man who never asks for trade
By local line or ad. displayed,
Cares more for rest than worldly gain,
And patronage but gives him pain.
Tread lightly, friends; let no rude sound
Disturb his solitude profound.
Here let him live in calm repose,
Unsought except by men he owes;
And when he dies, go plant him deep,
That naught may break his dreamless sleep;
Where no rude clamor may dispel
The quiet that he loved so well.
And that the world may know its loss,
Place on his grave a wreath of moss,
And on a stone above "Here lies
A chump who wouldn't advertise."

—M. L. Carey, in "The Spokesman."

ONE FORM OF BOOK-SMUGGLING.

A COUPLE of booksellers were recently exchanging stories, when the conversation turned upon the relative profit of the winter and summer seasons. In the course of the conversation one of the veterans was reminded of an incident that will strike a guilty note in the heart of many a book collector. Said he, "one of my most regular customers, a man well on in years, had a method of buying books that puzzled me for a long time. He'd drop in nearly every day during the winter and buy a book or two, remove the outside wrapper, and go off with it. Frequently he'd pay for a set of a dozen or more, but he wouldn't ever let me send them home for him. Instead, he would stop every day after business and go off with a volume under his arm, until the set was gone. Finally, one day I asked him why he did this. He looked sheepish for a moment, then chuckled. It seems he was a great book-collector. In his home every available space had long since been used for bookshelves—every shelf was full, and the surplus was piled up on the library chairs. His wife used to remonstrate with him—wanted him to sign the pledge—but he couldn't resist the temptation. So he fell into the habit of taking his new treasures home under his overcoat, and surreptitiously tucking them away before his wife could see them. This plan worked all right for the winter, but frequently of a hot summer afternoon, when his overcoat was packed away with mothballs, I'd see him, with longing eyes, go by on the other side. 'Perhaps,' said the dealer, with a laugh, 'there are others in the same fix, and that's one reason why more books are sold in winter than in summer.'

THE "INSIDE" PRICE.

MARK TWAIN some time ago told this story at a dinner given to Tax Commissioner Charles Putzel at the Freundschaft Society clubhouse in New York:

"I saw Mr. Putzel twenty-five years ago in Putnam's book store. I went in there and asked for George H. Putnam, and handed in my card. A young man took it in but came back and said that Mr. Putnam was busy and could not see me. I had merely gone there on a social call, and started to leave. As I was going out my eye was attracted to a big, fat, interesting looking book. It was entitled 'The Invasion of England in the Fourteenth Century by the Friars.' I asked the price of it.

"'Four dollars,' was the answer.

"'What discount do you allow publishers?'

"'Forty per cent. off.'

"'Well,' I said, 'I am a publisher.'

"He put down the figures '40 per cent.' on the card.

"I said, 'What discount do you allow authors?'

"He said, 'Forty per cent.'

"'Well,' I said, 'I am an author. You can put that down.'

"'What discount do you allow the clergy?'

"He said, 'Twenty per cent.'

"'Well,' I said, 'I am one on the road.' So I took twenty per cent. for that.

"He put down the figures and never smiled once. Here I was working off all these scintillating brilliancies on him and not even a spark of recognition. I was almost in despair. I thought I would try him once more, so I said:

"'You know I am also a member of the Human Race. Would you allow me ten per cent. off for that?'

"He set that down—never smiled—so I said:

"'There is my card with my address on it. I have no money with me. Send the bill to my home at Hartford.'

"I picked up the book and was going away when he said:

"'Wait a minute; there is forty cents coming to you.'

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small undisplaced advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

 In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges. Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

 Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," book-sellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

Many Booklovers

are attracted into bookstores by the display of our unique publications in the window. Many little items lead to big sales later on.

ONE little item is the DODGE LEAFLETS—an artistic series of motto cards, 5 x 7 inches, printed on a pasted antique bristol in two colors, and costing the trade only $3.00 per hundred.

ANOTHER small, but very attractive article, is our Inspiration Motto Series, Passepartout form, selling for $10.00 per hundred.

POST card frames are keeping our factory exceedingly busy. They are made to hold any post card, and cost only $7.50 per gross.

DAINTY books in artistic bindings make attractive window displays, and brighten up the store. Why not send for our catalogue to-day?

Makers of Beautiful Books for Booklovers

WINSTON CHURCHILL'S new novel

is in its 200th thousand

Complaints are sometimes heard that novels are not selling nowadays. The reason is not far to seek. Few of the later novels have been really worth while; still fewer have that special charm which makes one reader say to another: "You must read it."

"CONISTON" is proving that the buyers and readers of fiction are more in number than ever. Its appeal to the market is enormous and irresistible.

A Small Outlay With Large Possibilities

Promote Your School Book Business

Booksellers can add to the volume of their business materially by developing carefully the sale of school books in their territory. While the margin of profit appears to be small it must be kept in mind that many schools, especially private schools, colleges and universities, order in quantities; the sale-season, though short, is "snappy" and there is a minimum of danger only in accumulating "dead" stock. When you make a customer for school books, be he the school principal or pupil, you have a customer for other supplies as well and very often you form business friendships with the "book-lovers" of the future.

To aid the bookseller in this branch of his business, we publish yearly an up-to-date "Educational List" containing the titles of current school books and their prices, together with a classified index of subjects. This catalogue we supply at a very low rate in quantities with the dealer's own imprint on front page—cheap enough to warrant any bookseller distributing it among all the educational institutions in his territory.

To the Booktrade

We take pleasure in announcing a new issue of WHITAKER'S REFERENCE CATALOGUE, 1906, which is to be ready for delivery in July. It will consist, as in the last (1902) edition, of two strongly bound volumes. The complete or abridged list of nearly every British publisher of note will be found in the new edition, so that almost every book now in print and on sale in England will be included in the Index. In some form or other every book in the Catalogue is indexed. As a rule the subject of the book is given, but in cases where it appears necessary, books are indexed under the three headings of Title, Subject, and Author's name. The index of the last edition extended to 800 pages, containing more than 130,000 references. As the edition is limited we solicit early orders from booksellers, especially from those dealers who have had the earlier issues of this trade tool and appreciate its value.

The price of the set, 2 volumes, bound in half leather, is $5.00.

Miss Dorothy Amhurst, the famed Bar Harbor beauty, who attracted considerable notice through her unexpected inheritance of $15,000,000 and her subsequent strange disappearance, has returned to America, and the account of her adventures during the several months of her absence is on a par with an Arabian Night's tale for absorbing interest and incredible episode.

Her absence was connected with the baffling mystery surrounding the kidnapping of Prince Lermontoff, of Russia, and the vanishing of Alan Drummond, of His British Majesty's navy. Although the whole matter has not heretofore been made public, it is now set forth in vivid, interest-compelling fashion by Robert Barr, the great English novelist, in his latest, best novel, "A Rock in the Baltic."

"A Rock in the Baltic" is a bit of epoch-making fiction that will be in everybody's library within three months of its publication.

NEVER were the life and spirit of Old California more graphically portrayed than in Mrs. Rya's new romance, "FOR THE SOUL OF RAFAEL." The story is "as full of prismatic light and color as one of the jewels that figure so dramatically in the drama's conclusion."

The conditions that enter into the making of a beautiful book have never been quite so harmoniously brought together as in this regular $1.50 novel.

"FOR THE SOUL OF RAFAEL" is having a lively sale. It will continue to be in brisk demand. It deserves to be vigorously featured by every bookseller.

Write for display matter. With books, posters, etc., you can get stunning show-window effects.

has contracted with the publishers for the dramatic rights of THE HOUSE OF A THOUSAND CANDLES. The dramatization is being made by Mr. George Middleton, author of The Cavalier and of plays written for Miss Margaret Anglin and Miss Amelia Bingham. A sumptuous production by a splendid cast will be made early in the fall. This is new evidence of the charm and appeal of Meredith Nicholson's novel, which continues to be the best-selling book in the country.

BE SURE TO GET

The
Sands of Pleasure

By FILSON YOUNG (GUY THORNE)

Author of "When It was Dark," "A Lost Cause," etc.

(Ready July 14th)

"Mr. Filson Young's 'The Sands of Pleasure' is a book of notable distinction, standing as a work of art high amongst the year's publications. The architect-hero, Richard Gray, who builds a magnificent lighthouse on the Cornish coast, completing what his father had begun, has lived until thirty in an atmosphere of self-concentration. Then he visits Paris with a friend, who guides him to Montmartre and to Fontainebleau, where he drinks for a brief while of the wine of specious delight, that leaves an acrid aftertaste of lees. The author has proved himself master of his subject. The descriptions of the lighthouse building are intensely interesting, and the atmosphere of the surroundings is in perfect accord. It is not a light book; there is no badinage, no cheapness of thought or deed. It sets one striving, unavailingly it is true, to find the clue to a certain labyrinth. In the pictures of gay Parisian life—the Bohemia of to-day (which in fundamental matters has changed little since Murger wrote)—no modern English author has been so successful. One is reminded now and then of Daudet at his best, although the vehicle used by Mr. Filson Young is of his own fashioning."—The Sheffield Independent.

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO THE TRADE

We have just published under arrangement with G. & C. Merriam Co. a line of genuine WEBSTER DICTIONARIES which are, pursuant to a large demand, to be sold at popular prices. Hereafter dealers will have

Webster's Condensed Dictionary

1906 EDITION

Authorized and Copyrighted by

G. & C. MERRIAM CO.

A dictionary of the English language, with copious etymologies, accurate definitions, pronunciations, spelling, and appendixes of general reference, derived from the Unabridged Dictionary of Noah Webster, D.D., LL.D., edited under the supervision of Noah Porter, D.D., LL.D., President of Yale College. Webster's Condensed Dictionary contains 46,297 defined words, (2 to 40 per cent more than any other dictionary of similar scope outside of the genuine Webster series,) 1500 text illustrations, with color maps and charts as follows: a general Map of the United States; a general Map of the World; Flags of All Nations; Flags and Pennants of the International Code; the Signal Service Code; an Astronomical Chart of the Planetary System.

Webster's Condensed Dictionary has been the model upon which many so-called "Webster" and other dictionaries of high-sounding titles have been built. These have been sold to the public in cheap bindings and printed poorly on cheap paper in order to appeal by price instead of merit. Webster's Condensed Dictionary is designed to meet all conditions squarely in the face by reason of its authoritative contents, greater scope, original and better illustrations, standard of manufacture, paper, press work and bindings. The Condensed is well up to date, containing latest words, meanings and derivations. Not only is it protected by copyright, but also by Registered Trade-mark. Additional to its department of definitions is an appendix containing a pronouncing vocabulary, abbreviations in writing and printing, arbitrary signs, etc. Examples of new words: Radium, Tonneau, Limousin, Chauffeur, Lingerie, Coherer, Acetylene, Graft, etc.

Printed on high quality of paper.

Size $7\frac{3}{4} \times 5\frac{3}{4} \times 1\frac{3}{4}$ inches.

Bound in three styles, viz:

Extra silk finish cloth, with side and back stamping gold, marbled edges, double thumb-index cut on edge. Price $1.25.

Half morocco, side and back stamping in gold, marbled edges, double thumb-index cut on edge. Price $1.50.

Library edition, bound in genuine flexible morocco, gold side and back stamping, rounded corners, extra marbled edges, with double thumb-index. Price $2.00.

Weight packed for shipment (each book) 36 ounces.

Webster's Practical Dictionary

1906 EDITION

Authorized and Copyrighted by

G. & C. MERRIAM CO.

The Practical is all that its name implies—a practical dictionary of the English language, embodying the 31,465 words in practical use. While this dictionary is an abridgment of the well known Webster's Condensed Dictionary, it carries more words than any other handy sized dictionary, excepting the genuine Webster series, not to speak of its better illustrations and its definitions of later words, such as antitoxin, lyddite, chauffeur, automobile, radium, mercerized, limousine, etc. The authorship is the same as that of the Unabridged and Condensed dictionaries. Like the larger Websters, its authority is genuine and endorsed as such by educators. The Practical is published in three styles, designed to meet the needs of the public at most reasonable prices.

The Ideal edition contains 634 pages, including the dictionary proper with its 1200 illustrations and an appendix of 106 pages. The appendix consists of a pronouncing vocabulary, alphabetical list of abbreviations, arbitrary signs, the metric system, etc. Printed on extra book paper from new type set plates and substantially bound in durable extra cloth.

Size $7\frac{1}{4} \times 5\frac{1}{4} \times 1\frac{1}{4}$ inches. Weight ready for shipment, 26 ounces. Price, 80 cents.

The Concise edition contains 528 pages, but corresponds exactly to the Ideal except that the 106 pages of appendix are omitted. It is printed and bound in the same style and on the same high grade of paper.

Size, $7\frac{1}{4} \times 5\frac{1}{4} \times 1$ inch. Weight, packed for shipment, 20 ounces. Price, 65 cents

The Popular edition is identical in contents with the Concise edition, containing 528 pages. It is well printed on a good grade of paper and bound in durable cloth.

Size, $7\frac{1}{4} \times 5\frac{1}{4} \times 1$ inch. Weight, packed for shipment, 16 ounces. Price, 40 cents

NOTES IN SEASON.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will publish early in the fall F. Hopkinson Smith's "The Tides of Barnegat"; also, a new Western story of adventure and conflicts between cowboys and railroad men, by Frank A. Spearman, author of "The Daughter of a Magnate," etc.

A. C. McCLURG & Co. have in preparation an attractive book for children to be entitled "The Good Fairy and the Bunnies," by Allen Ayrault Green. The author has received a large number of complimentary letters from his young readers while the story was appearing in serial form—a most sincere form of appreciation. The book will be illustrated, in colors, by Frederick Richardson.

P. BLAKISTON'S SON & Co. have just published a work on "Entomology, with special reference to its biological and economic aspects," by Dr. Justus Watson Folsom. This book has been written with the aim of giving a comprehensive yet concise account of insects, and in an effort to provide a text-book for students which treats the subject of entomology from the biological and practical standpoints. The numerous illustrations in the book are chiefly from the author's original drawings.

DANA ESTES & Co. have just ready a new novel by Filson Young, (Guy Thorne,) author of "The Happy Motorist," etc., entitled "The Sands of Pleasure." The scene of the story shifts from the Cornish coast, where the hero is engaged in building a magnificent lighthouse, completing what his father had begun, and where, until thirty, he lived in an air of self-concentration, to Paris, where, in the gay surroundings of Montmartre and Fontainebleau, he loses his illusions and finds his true self.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. bring out this week "The Frog Book," by Mary Dickerson; "How to Make a Fruit Garden," by S. W. Fletcher; "Cotton," by Charles W. Burkett and Clarence H. Poe; also, the ninth and tenth parts of "The Dog Book," which are devoted to hounds, house dogs, toy dogs, etc. Next week they will publish the long-heralded and much-postponed "Recollections and Letters of George Washington," the letters being addressed by Washington to Tobias Lear, his confidential friend and secretary, whose recollections of the home life at Mt. Vernon give an intimate picture of a great man. They will publish at the same time a brilliant novel of Continental life by E. Nesbit, (Mrs. Hubert Bland,) entitled "The Incomplete Amoralist." This book, which takes its author out of the class of writers of children's stories and causes her to be ranked with our important women novelists, is the story of a man who is a universal lover, and who is finally bitten by a real passion himself.

THE REILLY & BRITTON COMPANY have published under arrangement with the G. & C. Merriam Co. five popular series of Webster's dictionaries, as follows: "Webster's Condensed Dictionary," which contains 46,297 defined words, 1500 text illustrations, color maps, charts, etc., and is bound in cloth, half morocco and in flexible morocco, retailing at from $1.25 to $2; "Webster's Practical Dictionary," an abridgment of the "Condensed," containing 31,465 words in daily use, also put up in three styles of binding; the Ideal edition, a handy volume, containing the dictionary proper, with 1200 illustrations and an appendix with a pronouncing vocabulary, list of abbreviations, arbitrary signs, etc., to retail at 80 cents; the Concise edition, which is identical with the Ideal edition, except that the appendix is omitted, a handy volume retailing for 65 cents; also, the Popular edition, which is identical with the Concise edition and gotten up to retail for 40 cents. These issues will meet the demand for inexpensive dictionaries, based on the Webster standard.

The author of "Old beliefs and new knowledge" says in his preface: "One frequently hears the opinion expressed that 'the very foundations of religion have been undermined by modern investigation.' The purpose of this book is to deal with the said 'foundations,' with the object of ascertaining whether the above-expressed opinion is justified." Author finds nothing in science to undermine religion, although science must modify some of the tenets of theology.

The first edition was published in 1898. Of three new chapters added to this edition the most important deals with polo in America. Polo in the West Indies is the subject of another chapter. The section on English Polo at London Headquarters gives the results of ten years' experience while the author was playing there almost daily during the season.
- The chapter on the Harlingham rules, with analysis which was a unique feature of the first edition, has been carefully rewritten. All the other chapters have been revised, and, when necessary, added to, to meet the wants of club managers and polo players. About fifty new photographic illustrations have been added.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

JULY 14, 1906.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter for advertising pages should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

BACKING THE BOOKSELLER.—I

THE course of action pursued by the Macmillan Company in this country and in Canada, in their dealings with libraries and certain other possible customers for miscellaneous books not engaged in the retail trade, —with certain exceptions, such, for example, as those interested in school books, which unfortunately is a special branch of the publishing business—to which reference was made some weeks since, if consistently followed by the whole publishing trade, would do much towards the rehabilitation of the bookseller. It is as true to-day as it was in the days of the Apostles, that "if a house be divided against itself, that house cannot stand;" in other words, a publisher must make and publish books, and the bookseller must promote a demand for them and distribute them among the public. The publisher cannot—unless the publishing is restricted to a few special books—combine the functions of a distributor with those of a publisher without injury to either one or the other of these functions; and even in the exceptional cases we have in mind, the publisher of a few special books would fare better if his books were handled through an alert and enterprising retail trade than he does by attempting their distribution himself.

In almost every other country the booktrade is generally divided into four divisions after the manuscript has left the author, namely, the printer, the bookbinder, the publisher and the retailer. Even in the cases where the foreign publisher is also a manufacturer, a perfectly natural combination, no other agent is allowed to interpose between the publisher and the bookseller, the supply of books in every case being direct from the publisher to the bookseller and from the bookseller to the public. It must be clear to even the densest observer that this division is an eminently rational and economical one. The German publisher, for example, in planning a book is able to estimate approximately what the possible demand for it may be, and he need not, therefore, dissipate his time, strength and capital in marketing it. For this service the publisher is able to rely upon well-organized and efficient channels of distribution—the more than 10,000 booksellers established in about 2000 cities and towns in Germany, Austria and Switzerland, and, if desired, he may put himself into communication with nearly 1200 more booksellers who handle German books in upwards of 300 cities and towns in the other countries of Europe, in America, Africa, Asia and Australia. It is sufficient for the publisher that he notifies the bookseller of his new publications through their trade journal, with its paraphernalia of order slips, etc., and the bookseller, who is expected, either personally or by proxy, to study his trade journal carefully, may day by day keep himself fully informed of the movements of the publishing trade; indeed, as ignorance of the law is no excuse, the publisher entrusts even his most important announcements to his trade journal, well aware that it will command attention. In exceptional cases only does the publisher address also the public on behalf of his books through the medium of the newspaper or magazine, or by means of circulars; but it is hardly necessary to add that no publisher would think of dealing directly with the book-buying public, whether public institutions or private buyers, and that to solicit such patronage would be anathema. There are some exceptions, but these would hardly prove the rule.

The conditions in this country, as our readers are well aware, are vastly different, and from some of them the retail booktrade has weakened and suffered for years. Realizing how difficult it would be to bring about a change, and how long a time would be consumed in the process, many able booksellers during the past two decades have given up the struggle and have turned their hands to other and more profitable callings.

The organization of the booktrade as we know it to-day is a heritage of its beginnings. When printing was first introduced into the American colonies the printer, naturally, was also the bookseller. Foreign books were occasionally brought into this country and sold by the importer of miscellaneous goods, including "Dutch oil cloths," "hair seating," cutlery and articles of "bigotry and virtue." It was not until early in the nineteenth century that publishing and bookselling were differentiated, and even then a large number of publishers continued to manufacture, and the bookseller divided his attention between the selling of books and the making of inks and blank books and the selling of the primitive articles now included under the comprehensive designation of "stationery."

The printer-publisher, while welcoming the division of labor, nevertheless could not subdue his hankering after orders from public and private institutions, colleges, schools, libraries and others, and so he added a so-called jobbing adjunct to his publishing business. After years of experimenting with such jobbing departments, the publishing houses that maintained them found them unprofitable and eliminated them altogether, or, in some cases, readjusted them so as to become retail stores proper, including mail order and library supply departments. The skimming of the cream of the booksellers' constituency through these adjuncts of the publisher's business continued until the advent of the cheap libraries in the early eighties, when the department store also rose to trouble the bookseller. At that time many of the abler booksellers turned their backs on the profession, and a number of the weaker ones went to the wall, leaving the trade at almost low ebb. Failing to perceive that one of the principal causes of the decay of the retail trade was the competition of the publisher with the retailer for what should be to the bookseller his principal support, the publisher still more dislocated the methods of distribution by entering the bookseller's local domain, and, by large and reiterated advertising, undermined even this last mainstay of the bookseller by soliciting orders from the public and supplying their books direct through their mail-order departments. It is indeed a wonder that so many booksellers had the courage to endure, even though to exist they were obliged to give the greater part of their time to the distribution of other lines in which a better living was made possible.

As the years went by, and the retail book-trade became still more decimated, discouraged and disorganized, the publisher, of necessity, was obliged more and more to undertake the direct marketing of his books to the public himself. The school-book trade, once a very profitable source of income to the bookseller, was the first to isolate itself, and it is now carried on at a tremendous expense to the publisher. Next, the publishers of law and medical books undertook to reach their public by the cumbersome and wasteful colportage system, by which method, also, many other special and high-priced books were marketed.

To market the miscellaneous books, especially the more popular ones, such as fiction, the publisher has been compelled to strain every nerve, and to expend sums for advertising of all kinds out of all proportion, it would seem, to the results attained. So great has been the waste in this direction that many publishers frankly admit that there is small profit in publishing miscellaneous books, and that the frequent failures in publishing fiction too closely balance the profit earned by the big sellers.

A GERMAN VIEW OF COPYRIGHT IN RELATION TO UNDERSELLING.

SIMULTANEOUSLY with the decisions rendered in the suits of the Bobbs-Merrill Company and Charles Scribner's Sons against the Macy's, the German Imperial Court, the final judicial authority, rendered similar decisions in the suit brought by the publishing firm Union, of Leipzig, against Hermann Schmoller, of Frankfurt-a.-M., for alleged violation of the copyright law by cutting the prices of its books, and in the suit brought by Albert Koenig, of Guben, against the firm of Jandorf, a department store in Berlin, to decide the question whether an author, under the provisions of the German copyright law, can compel a third party to maintain the price of his book.

When the suit of the Union against Schmoller was brought before the County Court of Frankfurt-a.-M., the court decided against the defendant on the ground that "a violation of copyright is possible even if the offense does not consist in an actual reprinting of the book. The author, and the publisher also, may prohibit the underselling of their book, and they may also determine the price at which their book must be sold in different localities. After the plaintiff had warned the defendant against selling his book below the price fixed, defendant by disregarding such warning rendered himself liable, because the sale of a book is equivalent to publishing. The defendant in this instance was fined 100 marks. The Imperial Court, on the contrary, was of the opinion that the copyright law did not apply to this case and found for the defendant, with costs.

In the suit brought by Albert Koenig against Jandorf the plaintiff declared that he had made contracts with the retail book-trade to maintain the price of his "Kursbuch" at 50 pf., but that the defendant had probably obtained its books either surreptitiously or through a dealer who violated his contract. Plaintiff, to discover the source of defendant's supply, then marked each of his books with a number, which number being affixed to a corner of the fly-leaf was clipped off by the defendant. Plaintiff therefore brought suit to protect himself. The County Court of Berlin dismissed the suit, and was sustained in its decision by the Supreme Court of Judicature on the following grounds: Copyright is intended to protect the author against unauthorized use of his work, that is, by reprinting it either in part or entire, and against a breach of contract between the originator of a work and the first purchaser. Such protection, however, could not be extended to an article after it has once been sold. It was also denied that the underselling of an article was an offense against morals, [Gute Sitten, as provided for in the Gesetzbuch,] because such practice is usual among merchants. If the defendant had obtained its books rightfully it was at liberty to dispose of them in whatever manner it chose, plaintiff having been unable to prove in what manner defendant had obtained its books. Koenig appealed to the Imperial Court, which, however, upheld the Supreme Court of Judicature, holding that there was no ground either in the organic law or the laws of the German empire upon which to enjoin the defendant against selling its books in any other manner than that prescribed by the plaintiff. A so-called absolute right in a publication that extended to every copy made of it the court considered neither conceivable nor feasible. An appeal to the patent law, the court held, also could not apply, because the inventor is only protected against an unauthorized reproduction of his invention, and cannot control the manufactured article after he has sold it.

CONGRESS TO INVESTIGATE SECOND CLASS MAIL MATTER.

CONGRESS in its bill of appropriation for the service of the Post-Office Department for the ensuing fiscal year, introduced the following provision:

"That there shall be appointed a joint commission of Congress, consisting of three Senators, to be appointed by the President of the Senate, and three members of the House of Representatives, to be appointed by the Speaker of the House, whose duty it shall be to investigate, consider and report, by bill or otherwise, to Congress its findings and recommendations regarding the second class of mail matter. The said joint commission shall have power to employ clerks and stenographers, administer oaths, send for persons and papers, and do all things necessary for the carrying out of its objects. For the payment of such actual and necessary expenses as may be incurred by the said joint commission in travelling and for the rental of quarters, printing, and other miscellaneous expenses of the joint commission the sum of twenty-five thousand dollars is hereby appropriated out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, to be paid out on the order of the chairman of the joint commission."

NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF NEWS-DEALERS.

THE twenty-seventh annual convention of the National Association of Newsdealers, Booksellers and Stationers of America will be held on August 21 and 22 in Chicago, Ill. Already a large number of dealers has promised to attend, and the convention is expected to be one of the most important ever held by the Association.

Those interested, who may wish to identify themselves with the Association, are requested to write to the national secretary, A. Hillman-Russin, 19 Park Place, New York City.

COPYRIGHT MATTERS.

PERFORATED MUSIC SHEETS NOT INFRINGEMENT OF COPYRIGHT.

THE United States Circuit Court of Appeals has unanimously affirmed the decision of the United States Circuit Court, rendered by Judge Hazel, who declared that perforated music sheets or records used in connection with mechanism are not an infringement of copyrighted musical compositions. The decision of Judge Lacombe, Judges Townsend and Coxe concurring, as summed up in the New York Law Journal for July 6 is as follows:

"The questions raised in these cases are of vast importance and involve far-reaching results. They have been exhaustively discussed in the clear and forcible briefs and arguments of counsel. We are of the opinion that the rights sought to be protected by these suits belong to the same class as those covered by the specific provisions of the copyright statutes, and that the reasons which led to the passage of said statutes apply with great force to the protection of rights of copyright against such an appropriation of the fruits of an author's conception as results from the acts of defendant.

"But in view of the fact that the law of copyright is a creature of statute, and is not declaratory of the common law, and that it confers distinct and limited rights, which did not exist at the common law, we are constrained to hold that it must be strictly construed, and that we are not at liberty to extend its provisions, either by resort to equitable considerations or to a strained interpretation of the terms of the statute.

"We are, therefore, of the opinion that a perforated paper roll, such as is manufactured by defendant, is not a copy of complainant's staff notation for the following reasons:

"It is not a copy in fact; it is not designed to be read or actually used in reading music as the original staff notation is, and the claim that it may be read, which is practically disproved by the great preponderance of evidence, even if true, would establish merely a theory or possibility of use, as distinguished from an actual use. The argument that because the roll is a notation or record of the music it is, therefore, a copy, would apply to the disc of the phonograph or the barrel of the organ, which, it must be admitted, are not copies of the sheet music. The perforations in the rolls are not a varied form of symbols substituted for the symbols used by the author. They are mere adjuncts of a valve mechanism in a machine. In fact, the machine or music playing device is the thing which appropriates the author's property and publishes it by producing the musical sounds, thus conveying the author's composition to the public.

"The decree is affirmed, with costs."

OBITUARY NOTES.

JULES ADOLPHE BRÉTON, the celebrated French painter, died in Paris, July 5. He was born in Courrières, (Pas-de-Calais,) in May, 1827, and was a pupil of Drolling and Devigne. His best-known pictures are "The Return of the Harvesters," "The Gleaners" and "The Communicants." Bréton was also known as a poet, and in 1890 he published his autobiography under the title of "Vie d'un Artiste—art et nature."

DR. CHRISTOPHER COLUMBUS LANGDELL, Dane professor of law emeritus at Harvard University, died in Cambridge, Mass., July 6. Dr. Langdell was born in Hillsborough County, N. H., May 22, 1826. He studied at Harvard in 1848 and 1849, and then, after teaching a time, took a course at the Harvard Law School, from which he was graduated in 1853. He practiced his profession in Cambridge until 1870, when he was elected Dane professor of law and dean of the law faculty at Harvard. His books include "Selection of Cases on the Law of Contracts," "Cases on Sales," "Summary of Law of Contracts and Equity Pleading," and "Cases in Equity Pleading."

WILLIAM BALLANTYNE, one of the oldest booksellers in Washington, D. C., died on July 7, at his summer home in Siasconset, Mass. Mr. Ballantyne was born in Scotland seventy-nine years ago and came to New York when a young man, settling in the book business on his own account. Acting upon the advice of Robert Carter he went to Washington, in 1852, and became a member of the firm of Gray & Ballantyne. Mr. Gray retired a few years later, and Mr. Ballantyne continued the business under his own name until April, 1878, when his eldest son, Robert Carter Ballantyne, was admitted as a partner and the firm became William Ballantyne & Son. When the younger son, William Ballantyne, Jr., became a partner, the firm name was changed to William Ballantyne & Sons. The firm, which does a large trade in books and stationery, has been for many years located at 428 Seventh Street. During the last five or six years Mr. Ballantyne has not been very active in business on account of failing health, but when in the city was almost always at his desk for a couple of hours daily. He is survived by two sons, his associates in business, and by a daughter.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

CHARLES BATTELL LOOMIS is putting the finishing touches to "Cheer Up," his new book, for James Pott & Co., preparatory to sailing for London to visit Jerome J. Jerome.

PROFESSOR EDWARD A. STEINER, of Grinnell College, Iowa, has sailed for Europe under commission from Fleming H. Revell Company to visit centres of emigration in the interest of his book, "On the Trail of the Immigrant," to be published this fall.

BUSINESS NOTES.

BALTIMORE, Md.—The John Murphy Company will open a bookstore in the Park Avenue Building.

MANILA, P. I.—E. M. Webster has been appointed receiver for the Van Buskirk Crook Company.

OGDEN, UTAH.—The Ross Book and Stationery Co. has changed the name of the concern to the Utah Stationery Company.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—The Franklin Bookshop, (Samuel N. Rhoads,) has outgrown its quarters at 1105 Walnut Street and removed to 210 West Washington Square, where there is larger space for the display of books, prints and manuscripts.

ST. PAUL, MINN.—The St. Paul Book and Stationery Company have taken a ten years' lease on a new three-story building in course of erection on East Sixth Street, between Minnesota and Cedar Streets. The building will be 50 x 100 feet and, with the basement, will give them 20,000 square feet of floor space. They expect the ground floor to be ready some time in October, and during the holidays will probably run two stores, as the lease on their present quarters at Fifth Avenue and St. Peter Streets will not expire until next May. The St. Paul Book and Stationery Company is the direct descendant of the firm of D. D. Merrill Co., which was established in 1859 by Daniel D. Merrill, who was actively connected with the management of the concern until his death in May, 1896. In 1879 D. D. Merrill & Co. and White, Stone & Co. combined forces as the D. D. Merrill Company, which in the fall of 1893, owing to the personal failure of Daniel D. Merrill, was obliged to liquidate. In February, 1894, the concern was reorganized as the St. Paul Book and Stationery Company, with Daniel D. Merrill, Clarence H. Slocum and Joseph H. Beck as active officers. The firm, which has always been a powerful factor in the Western booktrade, has made great strides during the past decade, and has several times been obliged to seek larger quarters; so that, if it continues to grow in the same proportion, in another ten years it may be obliged to look for a six-story building. The present officers are Mrs. A. M. Slocum, president; Joseph H. Beck, vice-president; Clarence H. Slocum, secretary and manager, and Clarence W. Sanders, treasurer.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.—Goldsmith Bros. have opened a new store at 2809 California Street, and carry a full line of books, stationery, magazines, etc. Will be glad to receive catalogues and samples in their line. They report that they have collected insurance in full, though their loss above insurance is estimated at about $5000.

SCRANTON, PA.—At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the International Text-book Co. the following directors were elected for the coming year: T. J. Foster, R. J. Foster, E. H. Lawall, W. L. Connell, J. K. Griffith, T. E. Jones, F. T. Patterson, C. D. Jones, C. D. Simpson. The present officers were re-elected.

SEATTLE, WASH.—The Lowman & Hanford Stationery and Printing Company opened their new store at 616 to 620 First Avenue, on the 7th inst., on which occasion they arranged an exhibition of fine bindings by the noted binders of the world.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

WILLIAM H. SMITH, JR., 515 West 173d Street, New York City, has in preparation a "Bibliography of Lincoln Literature," to be published early in the fall. Mr. Smith has collected 1200 items, each of which will be supplied with the price at which it has sold at auction, making the work of particular value to the bookseller, librarian and collector. The edition will be limited to 250 small paper copies and fifteen copies on large paper.

The Bulletin of Bibliography for July, published by the Boston Book Company, contains a reprint, from the Handbook for the Narragansett Pier A. L. A. meeting, of Clarence S. Brigham's "Bibliography of the Narragansett Country;" the first part of a bibliography of "Prose Fiction," by Nathaniel L. Goodrich, of the New York State Library, giving a list of books and essays in English relating to the theory of prose fiction in general, and to the history of English and American fiction from the publication of "Euphuus" of Lyly, in 1579, to the present year; pt. 23 of the second series of George Watson Cole's bibliography, "Bermuda in Periodical Literature, with occasional references to other works;" the department of "Births and Deaths," that is, a record of new titles, changed titles and deaths in the periodical world; also, the "Index to Reference Lists Published by Libraries," compiled by Elizabeth Cranston, of the Providence (R. I.) Public Library, which will hereafter be published monthly in the A. L. A. Booklist, and cumulated quarterly in the Bulletin of Bibliography.

CATALOGUES OF NEW AND SECOND-HAND BOOKS.—Théophile Belin, 48 Rue Cambon, Paris, Rare books, manuscripts and miniature

books of hours, fine bindings, etc. (1164 titles. 1 fr.)—Bertram Dobell, 77 Charing Cross Rd., London, Rare books, including books from the collections of Edwin Truman, W. W. Robinson, J. A. Slater and others. (No. 141, 683 titles.)—Otto Harrassowitz, 14 Queerstr., Leipzig, Die Levante, Byzanz, Neugriechenland, Palestina. (No. 292, 1681 titles.)—Karl W. Hiersemann, 3 Königsstr., Leipzig, Biblioteca Mejicana. (No. 325, 1098 titles.)—Maggs Bros., 109 Strand, London. Autograph letters, signed documents and manuscripts. (No. 220, 1088 titles.)—Museum Book Store, 43 Museum St., London, Books, etc., relating to North and South America, Canada and the West India Islands. (No. 11, 475 lots.)—Bernard Quaritch, 15 Piccadilly, London, Works on America. English history, philology, occult sciences, Bibles, etc. (No. 250, 1197 titles.)—Ludwig Rosenthal, 15 Hildegardstr., Munich, Bavaria, Americana. (No. 115, 1674 titles.)—Shepard Book Company, Salt Lake City, Utah, Rare poetical and dramatic works. (No. 23, 36 p. 12°.)—George D. Smith, 50 New St., New York, Rare and curious books, including Americana and first editions. (No. 116, 160 titles.)—H. H. Timby, Conneaut, O., Miscellaneous. (No. 39, 32 p. 12°.)—Karl Theodor Völcker, 3 Römerberg, Frankfurt-a.-M., Kriegsgeschichte u. Heerwesen. (No. 263, 1635 titles.)

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

ARCHIBALD CONSTABLE & Co., London, will publish at once Marie Corelli's new novel, "The Treasure of Heaven, a Romance of Riches."

B. W. HURBSCH is showing his line of diaries, "Huebsch's Year Book," for 1907 and perpetual, to stationers, and his publications to booksellers, in the middle West. The trade west of the Mississippi is being visited in the interest of the same goods by C. R. Faris.

H. M. CALDWELL COMPANY have in preparation "The Wishbone Boat," by Miss Alice C. D. Riley, which describes the journey, in a wishbone boat, of a princess and her fool to strange lands in search of the beauty which both lacked. The story will be illustrated by L. J. Bridgman.

FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY have in preparation for the fall "The Adventures of Billy Topsail," a sea book for boys, by Norman Duncan; also, "The Undertow," a new book by Robert E. Knowles, whose "St. Cuthbert's" has survived two seasons with increasing strength and popularity.

LONGMANS, GREEN & Co. have in press "A Girl of Resource," by Eyre Hussey, author of "Miss Badsorth, M. F. H.;" "Heroes of European History," by the widow of Dr. Mandell Creighton, Bishop of London; also, "The Correspondence of Two Brothers," the brothers being Edward Adolphus, eleventh Duke of Somerset, and Lord Webb Seymour.

It is proposed by Dr. I. Colijn, of Upsala, Dr. K. Haebler, of Dresden, and others, to organize a society for the study of incuna-bula, that is, to supplement the work of Hain, Proctor and others, and of the projectors of the general catalogue of all incunabula, by reproducing in facsimile the largest possible number of types used by the early printers. The society is to be named Gesellschaft für Typenkunde des xv. Jahrhunderts, and the yearly dues are not to exceed twenty-five marks, which will entitle the members each year to receive a portfolio of about 100 plates. Dr. Isak Colijn, of Upsala, is temporary secretary, and Rudolf Haupt, bookseller at Halle-a-S., is temporary treasurer.

McLOUGHLIN BROTHERS have in preparation a new series, The Athletic Library, which will contain stories of field sports by writers who are recognized as authorities on their subjects, as well as lovers of the sports that delight American boys and girls. The initial volume will be "Midget Blake, Pitcher," by Leslie W. Quirk, author of "Baby Elton, Quarterback." Another new series in preparation is the American Boys' and Girls' Library, which will contain stories illustrating the life and times of American boys and girls who lived in the long ago, as well as the boys and girls of our own times. The initial volume in this series will be "Judy, Heroine," a Rhode Island story of the time of Roger Williams, by Elizabeth Preston.

ALEXANDER MORING, London, has just published "The Story of the Laxdalers," translated from the Icelandic by the late Robert Proctor. This translation of one of the finest of the sagas was printed under Proctor's directions at the Chiswick Press in the year of his death. Though without ornament of any kind, the book is an almost perfect piece of printing, and was exhibited for its typographical merit both at the St. Louis Exhibition and lately at the "Arts and Crafts." On its appearance, in 1903, it was not sent out for review nor advertised in any way, and Proctor even postponed circulating a little prospectus which had been set up until he should have returned from the holiday on which he met his death. The volume is thus now practically offered to booklovers for the first time.

LOTHROP, LEE & SHEPARD COMPANY have among their fall announcements a novel entitled "Hearts and the Cross," by Harold M. Kramer, one of the group of Indiana journalists who have contributed so much good material to recent literature. The story is of a man whose vigorous personality enables him to do justice to himself, and to secure justice for himself, under most trying conditions. The story is illustrated by Harold Matthews Brett. They will add to their Phillips-Exeter Series "With Mask and Mitt," by A. T. Dudley. The new volume continues the subject of baseball, although it is very much more than merely a baseball story. The volume will be illustrated by Charles Copeland. Two new Stratemeyer books are also promised—"Dave Porter in the South Seas," a new volume in the Dave Porter Series, and "Trail and Trading Post," a new volume in the Colonial Series. A. B. Shute has made the illustrations for both books.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small undisplaced advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their Communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

☞ In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges. Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

☞ Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," book-sellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

Clark Russell's

NEW BOOK

THE YARN OF OLD HARBOUR TOWN

A Sea Romance, by W. CLARK RUSSELL, author of "The Romance of a Midshipman," etc. $1.50

A tale that breathes the freshness and freedom of the sea. There is life and spirit and action and the indescribable charm of life on or near the ocean. The plot is most ingenious and well worked out, the interest throughout never lags, and the characters are unusually natural and life-like,—that of Lucy Acton, the heroine, being particularly good. A clever tale.

THE GIRL OUT THERE

By KARL EDWIN HARRIMAN

Author of "The Girl and the Deal." Six full-page illustrations. $1.25

The Chicago Record-Herald says:

"It does one good to read it. Such brave, honest people! Such a sane and simple plot, with such a happy ending! It rings with true cadences of humor and pathos, and a sound yet tender spirit runs through it all."

PHILADELPHIA

A Small Outlay With Large Possibilities

Promote Your School Book Business

Booksellers can add to the volume of their business materially by developing carefully the sale of school books in their territory. While the margin of profit appears to be small it must be kept in mind that many schools, especially private schools, colleges and universities, order in quantities; the sale-season, though short, is "snappy" and there is a minimum of danger only in accumulating "dead" stock. When you make a customer for school books, be he the school principal or pupil, you have a customer for other supplies as well and very often you form business friendships with the "book-lovers" of the future.

To aid the bookseller in this branch of his business, we publish yearly an up-to-date "Educational List" containing the titles of current school books and their prices, together with a classified index of subjects. This catalogue we supply at a very low rate in quantities with the dealer's own imprint on front page—cheap enough to warrant any bookseller distributing it among all the educational institutions in his territory.

TERMS FOR IMPRINT EDITIONS

100 Copies $5.00 500 Copies $22.50 1000 Copies $40.00

 Can we interest you? If not familiar with the "Educational List" write for a sample copy.

THE WOMAN IN THE ALCOVE
is the best detective story Anna Katharine Green has ever written, and among American makers of this popular kind of fiction Anna Katharine Green has for a long time been easily first.

THE WOMAN IN THE ALCOVE
is, indeed, one of the most fascinating books of the sort, superior in content, it seems to us, to either The Filigree Ball or The Millionaire Baby, and as absorbing as those or any of their predecessors.—New York Times Saturday Review of Books.

GREAT NOVEL

THE TIDES OF

Illustrated in color by GEORGE WRIGHT. $1.50

A wonderful story of life on the shores of Barnegat, a tale of love and death, sin and self-sacrifice, lightened by the kindness and sympathetic humor that characterizes all his writings. The great variety of persons that figure in the story, the splendid open-air tone and spirit of the book, the dramatic scenes and tremendous ending, set it apart from other novels. Its great success as a serial in SCRIBNER'S MAGAZINE proves the strong appeal it makes to the hearts and understanding of its readers.

Anna Katharine Green's all-conquering success

THE WOMAN IN THE ALCOVE

"The Woman in the Alcove is the best detective story which Anna Katharine Green has yet written."—Chicago Daily News.

"Both in plausibility of plot and in ingenuity of construction, Anna Katharine Green has outdone herself in The Woman in the Alcove."—Boston Transcript.

"The Woman in the Alcove is superior in content, it seems to us, to either The Filigree Ball or The Millionaire Baby, and as absorbing as those or any of their predecessors."—New York Times Saturday Review of Books.

"America's greatest writer of detective stories has added another volume to her many thrilling books, and this time she surpasses anything she has ever written."—Boston Times.

"Ingenuity and inventiveness, in unusual plot and startling incident, The Woman in the Alcove must be accorded first place in the author's long list of successes."—St. Paul Dispatch.

"The Woman in the Alcove is a novel of exciting charm—so intense that on opening the book one is fairly whipped with curiosity to read it to the end."—Portland Oregonian.

"A story of absorbing interest, baffling mystery, original situations, rapid action and startling climaxes is The Woman in the Alcove."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

NOTES IN SEASON.

A. C. McCLURG & Co. have just ready a practical up-to-date book for business men and correspondents in "Success in Letter Writing—Business and Social," by Sherwin Cody. They have also just ready their re-issue of "Wacousta, a Tale of the Pontiac Conspiracy," Major John Richardson's famous romance, with five full-page illustrations by C. W. Jefferys.

L. C. PAGE & Co. will publish shortly an important library set in "Memoirs of the Pretenders and Their Adherents," by John Heneage Jesse. The three volumes include, beside the known facts of history, all the intimate and secret details of the lives of the Stuart Pretenders to the English throne, and the inner history of the English court obtained from reliable private sources.

HENRY HOLT & Co. will publish shortly "Principles of English Verse," by Professor Charlton Miner Lewis, of Yale, who treats of rhythm and metre, of blank verse and rhymed verse, and of much more in a manner intelligible to the unlearned. In fact, his book is designed, as he says, chiefly for 'general readers,' and to such he promises material assistance and satisfaction, arguing that English metres are in detail very complicated, but in their fundamental principles very simple.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY have in preparation for the fall F. Marion Crawford's new novel, "Prima Donna," which will continue the adventures of the wonderful soprano, "Fair Margaret." It may be recalled that the closing chapter of "Fair Margaret: a Portrait" ended with the soprano's successful debut in Brussels and an unsuccessful attempt on the part of the King of the Belgians to capture her person if not to captivate her affections. The story will not have initial publication as a serial before its appearance in book form. They have also in preparation "White Fang," which is said to be the best work that Jack London has done since "The Call of the Wild." Indeed, it is closely associated with that book, for it treats of a similar theme in the reverse order—from barbaric nature to culture and civilization—the gradual taming of a wolf which has become a starved hanger-on of a dogsled in the frozen North and his gradual adoption of the ways of trained and intelligent canine helpers of man.

DUFFIELD & Co., by special arrangement with the New York Herald Company, are to issue "Little Nemo in Slumberland" in book form. The artist-author of this attractive series, Winsor Macay, is already known as a draughtsman of much skill and imagination, among his creations being "Sammy Sneeze" and "Dreams of the Welsh Rabbit Fiend." They have also made arrangements to publish the autobiography which Geronimo, the famous Apache outlaw, has spent the last two years in writing. By permission of the War Department and President Roosevelt, S. M. Barrett, Superintendent of Schools at Lawton, Oklahoma, has been the medium through which the chief, now seventy-seven years of age, has told the story of his life and that of his people. The object of the autobiography, so the old chief declares, is to aid in freeing his people from the captivity in which they have been held for a score of years. He wants to have lands allotted to them, which they may hold and bequeath to their children. The War Department has allowed Geronimo, Mr. Barrett says, to tell his story in his own simple but picturesque fashion. He goes back over the first thirty years of his life, during which he never saw a "pale face," and of his career as the great war chief of the Apaches, fighting against the encroachments of civilization.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

The prices of net books published under the rules of the American Publishers' Association are preceded in this list by a double asterisk , and the word net follows the price. The prices of fiction (not net) published under the rules are preceded by a dagger†. The prices of net books not covered by the rules, whether published by members of the American Publishers' Association or not, are preceded by a single asterisk, and the word net follows the price.

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin, of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

Butterfield, W. A. The "Bacon nonsense": a review of Mr. Edwin Reed's book "Bacon versus Shakespeare, brief for plaintiff"; reprinted from Birmingham (Eng.) Daily Gazette. Bost., W. A. Butterfield, 1906. 8 p. O. pap., 10 c.

"Bacon vs. Shakespeare" was a collection by Edwin Reed of quotations from 107 authorities, only eleven of whom favored the Baconian theory. From this material, however, Mr. Reed showed the cumulative evidence in favor of Bacon. See notice "Weekly Record," P. W., April 22, 1905, [1734.] He proved there had been an actor at Stratford-on-Avon named William Shakespeare who was totally distinct from the person who wrote the plays under the pen-name Shakespeare. The present writer selects a few of Mr. Reed's points and gives them without comment, merely calling attention to the good historical work shown in "Bacon vs. Shakespeare," which has not yet been refuted by a recognized authority.

Deland, Mrs. Margaret Wade Campbell, [Mrs. Lorin F. Deland.] The awakening of Helena Ritchie; il. by Walter Appleton Clark. N. Y., Harper, 1906. c. 4+357 p. D. cl., $1.50.

To the top of the hill in Old Chester has come Helena Ritchie, a young, beautiful woman, who remains a mystery to Dr. Lavender, Dr. William King and the other old inhabitants with whom Mrs. Deland has made her readers so intimately acquainted. Dr. Lavender has a little child to place, and Dr. King suggests that it would be good for the lonely woman to care for it. The sober, dutiful, obedient child awakens Helena, who has been the evolution of uncontrolled circumstances. Her mysterious husband dies, and her more mysterious "brother," loses control of her life, and she leaves Old Chester with the child to begin a new life under new conditions. Three generations of the Wright men offer remarkable psychological studies.

Author is professor in the University of Berne, and a specialist in the treatment of nervous disorders through psychic suggestion. He has embodied his theories in a book entitled "The psychic treatment of nervous disorders." This lecture points out how by self-control and philosophy we can control the "unhappy passions" of fear, inquietude, discouragement, anger, etc., which all lower the nervous tension and react upon the physical condition.

 Author instructor in entomology at the University of Illinois. A comprehensive and concise account of insects. Though planned primarily for the student, the book is intended also for the general reader. It was written in an effort to meet the growing demand for a biological treatment of entomology. The existence of several excellent works on the classification of insects has enabled the author to omit the multitudinous details of classification and to introduce much material that hitherto has not appeared in text-books. The 300 illustrations are chiefly from the author's original drawings. Classified bibliography (58 p.).

Poe's character and career have for many years been a study with the author, his intention being some time in the future to make a book of his literary discoveries, that is, to re-write Poe's biography from an entirely new view-point, showing the malice and mistakes of his past biographers. He gives here a few new and interesting facts, in a detached way, about portraits of Poe, the "Lavante" satire, the profile study, the widower year portrait, and a transposable portrait, a mechanical contrivance to prove the perfect regularity of both sides of Poe's physiognomy.

This book takes its title from the founder of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, Richard Allen, who was born in 1760, in Philadelphia, of a slave woman belonging to the household of Benjamin Chew. He bought his freedom, when grown to be a man, and became an itinerant preacher. His life and his great work for his race are traced in a brief sketch. The "sons of Allen," the subjects of 123 sketches, are members of the African Methodist Church of the present generation, who have become lawyers, doctors, ministers, authors, editors, or have otherwise distinguished themselves. Wilberforce University, situated in Ohio and established for colored youth, is the subject of an article depicting its rise and progress.

Aurora, Ill., American Indian Historical Publishing Co., [1906.] c. 11-771 p. il. pors. plan, map, O. cl., $2.50.

Author has written "The white side of a black subject" and "A new negro for a new century," both to vindicate the Afro-American. He now takes up the First American and gives in condensed form the lives of practically all the most famous Indian chiefs from the Colonial period to the present time. He aims to show the brighter, better side of Indian life and character and that the Indian's greatest faults must be traced to a wrong system of governing them.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

THE H. W. WILSON COMPANY, Minneapolis, Minn., has in press the supplement to the "United States Catalog," covering the years from the issue of that work to 1906, a period of four years.

THE Bibliographie de la France announces that an association entitled Société Française de Bibliographie has been organized in Paris. The object of the society, which has its headquarters in the building of the Cercle de la Librairie, is to bring those people together who take an interest in the study of the proper classification of books, to organize the better production of catalogues, etc., and to place on a uniform footing the issue of all bibliographical publications.

BAILLY-BAILLIÈRE Y HIJOS, of Madrid, announce a "Nueva Biblioteca de Autores Españoles," to be brought out under the direction of Marcelino Menéndez y Pelayo, with the collaboration of such noted specialists as R. Menéndez Pidal, M. Serrano y Sanz, A. Ponilla y San Martín, E. Cotarelo y Mori, M. Mir, and other distinguished Spanish scholars. It is the purpose of the "Nueva Biblioteca" to offer a continuation and complement to the "Biblioteca de Autores Españoles" of Rivadeneyra, (which was begun in 1846 and suspended after the death of its founder in 1880, when it had reached the 71st volume,) though not to follow too closely its plan or imitate exactly its methods, particularly in the reproduction of texts. It is the intention of the "Nueva Biblioteca" to fill up the lacunæ of its predecessor, and if the ambitious project is realized, the number of volumes in the collection may easily exceed the 71 of Rivadeneyra.

BACKING THE BOOKSELLER.—II.

REALIZING that the booktrade—publisher as well as retailer—was not keeping abreast with the progress made by every other trade, in proportion to the development of the country and the increase of population, the publishers, five years ago, took the initiative in bringing about a reform looking to the building up of an adequate distributing machinery throughout the country. It was the most important step taken by the booktrade in a century, and almost instantly its benign effects were felt. That the American Publishers' Association was not able at once to eliminate all the evils from which the trade had been suffering for a hundred years was natural. The readjustment, to be effectual, must be slow, and justice must be done to every interest concerned in publishing, selling and buying books. We have all confidence that, so far as trade interests may be controlled through rules and regulations, the American Publishers' Association will in time succeed so far as the letter of the law is concerned. But the publishing trade can never hope to develop an effective retail distributing machinery throughout this country so long as its members persist in competing with the bookseller in supplying books to what is properly the bookseller's constituency.

Wherever a bookseller may be established all trade in his locality should, as far as possible, be directed to him; to divert it from him, indeed, to coax it away even by underbidding him in his own field, as has been only too frequently the case in past years, works injury to both parties—because of what profit is a large library or other order to the publisher to-day if to-morrow the bookseller, upon whom he must depend for the distribution of his whole publishing output, and whom he has persuaded to stock up with his publications, is bankrupted by losing his customers through such methods? All the good that might result through trade rules is negated by such a proceeding.

We realize that the re-creating of a retail book distributing machinery, even if undertaken whole-heartedly by the majority of the publishers, will be a slow process, and will undoubtedly meet with many difficulties and discouragements in the initial stages. The field is a large one and must be carefully studied section by section by competent bookmen with the necessary business qualifications. Tentatively every county in every State should be carefully canvassed and measured according to its population, its standard of education and its possibilities of being able to support a well-appointed bookstore. Every large city, even, should be mapped out with the same object in view. Hundreds of capable men could no doubt at any time be encouraged to start bookstores in likely localities, provided they might be assured of their field. Already many are established in so-called bookstores, who, discouraged by present conditions, devote more attention to other lines than to books. These can, no doubt, be stimulated into greater efficiency and activity as booksellers if their hopes of more adequate remuneration in handling books are realized.

In certain cases, it may be necessary to stock up such stores with books "on sale," which thus would probably have a better chance of moving than they now have stored up in the bins of the publishers' stock rooms or warehouses. Indeed, in this direction publishers, if they are really ambitious to develop their business to the highest possible point, may collectively find it necessary in time to follow the lead of certain other large industries which, to create an outlet for their products, were obliged individually to establish retail distributing agencies in localities where they could not induce others to establish them independently. On the whole such an experiment might not prove quite so costly as it has been to cultivate bookbuyers through mail-order canvass and to encourage the many irresponsible co-operative purchasing agencies, reading clubs, etc., which the publishing trade has always more than generously supported in its desire to find an outlet for its book production.

The publishing trade for years has been looking forward to the dawning of the day of large sales of all classes of books; but it has done little in the direction of systematic and concerted action towards bringing about that event. If the publishing trade has succeeded thus far in maintaining itself after a fashion, it has been because a fraction of the public has by its own initiative felt the need of certain books and has sought for them, rather than because the public at large has been trained to a habit of buying books of every kind, as it should and might have been trained by a competent distributing machinery substantially encouraged to maintain itself throughout the country. And all this might have been done with less cost to the publisher and greater gain to the bookseller and to the public than has heretofore been possible.

We have but touched upon the conditions of the present and the possibilities of the future as they present themselves from an objective point of view. It must remain for the publishers to decide whether a feasible and practicable plan can be developed to better these conditions and whether its present machinery can be so adjusted that it may make possible a development of the booktrade that will assure adequate return for the immense amount of capital and labor expended upon it by those interested in its maintenance.

It is, of course, also paramount for the retail booktrade to realize its responsibility in co-operating in the reorganization of the booktrade, as outlined, to relieve the publisher of the necessity of bringing his work directly to the attention of its constituents. If the bookseller fulfils his function to the highest degree in making a market for the publishing output, and thus proves to the publisher that he can do the work thus far done by the publisher more effectively and more economically than it has been done heretofore, he can make demand for better remuneration with greater assurance and greater certainty of recognition than has been possible heretofore. The safeguarding of the interests of the retailer does not lie in the direction of increasing the prices of books and in excessive discounts—that road does not lead to prosperity, as the experience of years has proved; it lies, rather, in the direction of a more economical administration of the business of the publisher and bookseller. If the publisher can be relieved of the burden of expense in marketing his books by the retailer, he can afford to make his books cheaper and to distribute the sums he now is obliged to expend in advertising his books and in getting them to the public through outside channels, to the direct remuneration of the bookseller. If each party concerned in the reform will be true to itself, the publisher will realize that an ably-conducted retail bookstore is a great factor in the development of the intelligence and culture of the community, and the bookseller must recognize that in furthering the interests of the publisher he is, above all, guarding his own interest and welfare.

THE LIBRARY OF CONGRESS, through the Copyright Office, is making an important step forward in national cataloguing in the issue of a new series of the weekly "Catalogue of Copyright Entries," beginning with the first week of the present month. The basis of this bibliography is the material given in full on the Library of Congress card, with publisher's name, paging, size, etc., record of Copyright, and a chronological and an order number. This full entry is supplemented by an index, alphabetically by author, giving the card number, which furnishes an easy clue to the full entry. It is proposed to cumulate this index, but on just what plan is yet to be determined. The actual type used for the card is re-used in this catalogue, so that the card catalogue of a library may now be supplemented by a chronological weekly record on which books in the library may be indicated by shelf number or otherwise. So far, the support of the catalogue has been very meagre, but the new form should commend the publication for practical use, and it is to be hoped that it may receive increasing support from the booktrade and libraries, although it cannot be expected that this issue, any more than that of the catalogue cards, may be made self-sustaining. It is not improbable that this publication may cause a considerable modification in the private enterprises now covering this field, as foreshadowed in the preface to the first volume of the "American Catalog," 1900-05."

A CLOSED SEASON FOR NET BOOKS IN ENGLAND.

THE English Publishers' Association, at a special meeting called to consider ways and means to protect the booktrade against such underselling methods as those practiced by the Times Book Club, to which reference was made in our issue of July 7, adopted the following resolutions:

(1) That second-hand copies of net books shall not be sold under the published price within six months of publication.

(2) That new copies of net books shall not be treated as dead stock within twelve months of the date of purchase, nor shall at any time afterwards be sold at a reduction without having been first offered to the publisher at cost price, or at the proposed reduced price, whichever is the lower.

THE NEW COPYRIGHT CATALOGUE.

WITH the first week in July the Copyright Office began the publication of a new series of the "Catalogue of Copyright Entries," making marked and important changes from the previous system. The weekly catalogue will hereafter be issued in four parts, the classification following in general that adopted for the proposed copyright law, although combining some of these classes for practical purposes. Thus part 1 includes Class A, Books, including Group 1, Books proper, and Group 2, Pamphlets, leaflets, contributions to periodicals, etc.; Class D, Dramatic compositions, and Class E, Maps and Charts. Part 2 includes Class B, Periodicals, that is, the names of periodicals as distinguished from contributions to periodicals included in Group 2 of Class A. Part 3 includes Class C, Musical Compositions. Part 4 includes Class F, Engravings, cuts and prints, Class G, Chromos and lithographs, Class H, Photographs, Class I, Fine arts. The system of arrangement varies in the several parts, but each part, except Part 3, is indexed by authors or copyright proprietors.

Part 1 is, of course, of especial interest to libraries and the book trade. It gives in the first place a reprint of the full entry of the Library of Congress cards from the type used for card purposes—a decided advance in copyright cataloguing. In the case of Group 1, Books proper, figures indicate the number of cards required for complete card catalogue entry, the serial number of the copyright entry, the date, and the card order number. The index gives, under the name of the author, a short title and the card order number, from which easy reference may be had to the full entry. It is proposed to cumulate this index, but to what extent has not been determined upon.

REPORT OF THE REGISTER OF COPYRIGHTS FOR THE FISCAL YEAR 1905-1906.

THE report of the Register of Copyrights, Thorvald Solberg, for the fiscal year July 1, 1905, to June 30, 1906, makes the following showing:

COPYRIGHT FEES.

January 13, 1904—China. (Treaty of October 8, 1903, Article XI.)

July 1, 1905—Norway.

May 17, 1906—Japan. (Treaty of May 10, 1906.)

RECORD PRICE FOR OLD PRINT.

THE sales at Sotheby's last week included upward of 1000 engravings from the old masters, from the collection of the late Alfred Morrison. They realized $25,470. They were all rarities, though only duplicates, and aroused much competition, the prices showing a great increase since their last appearance at auction.

The Berlin Museum secured most of the rarities, but for a scarce print by Martin Schongauer they were beaten by Keppel, of New York, who paid $1650 for the print. This was the highest price at the sale. The previous record for this print was $135. Keppel also bought several examples of Lucas van Leyden.

Christie & Co., also last week, sold a self-drawn portrait of Whistler, in chalk, for $405. Rosenbach, of New York, bought a specimen of Stuart needlework for $515.

THE PRINTING PRESS IN 1905.

THERE has been a large growth in the American printing and publishing trade since the census of 1900, according to advance sheets of the census of manufactures for 1905. The figures are:

		Increase since 1900.
Establishments.....	26,427	4,115
Capital.....	$384,021,359	$91,504,287
Officials, clerks, etc.....	64,920	27,121
Yearly salaries.....	$62,727,582	$26,636,863
Wage earners.....	185,190	22,298
Yearly wages.....	$108,871,748	$24,631,794
General expenses.....	$102,469,279	$46,771,350
Materials used.....	$123,474,330	$36,618,040
Yearly receipts.....	$496,087,109	$49,032,059

The yearly receipts, $496,000,000, consisted of $146,000,000 from advertising, $111,000,000 from subscriptions and sales and $239,000,000 from book, job and miscellaneous work.

In the calendar year of 1904 the newspapers and periodicals used 1,819,657,086 pounds of paper, costing $47,239,764. The publications recorded in 1905 numbered 21,400, and consisted of the following:

		Increase over 1900.
News, political and family.....	16,516	1,649
Religious.....	1,287	335
Trade journals.....	627	107
Fraternals.....	450	250
Commercial and financial.....	364	174
Agricultural, dairy, etc.....	360	53
All others.....	1,796	606
Totals.....	21,400	3,174

The dailies, numbering 2455, had an aggregate circulation of 19,624,757 on week days only. The Sunday editions distributed 11,539,521 copies every week. The other circulations were: Semi-weeklies, 2,937,464; weeklies, 36,741,597; monthlies, 62,867,536; quarterlies, 9,709,627; and all other, 3,803,326. The total regular circulation of the 21,400 publications was 146,503,828, equal to nearly two publications for each man, woman and child in the country.

SHAKESPEARE FIRST FOLIOS.

SIDENEY LEE contributes to the April Library notes and additions to the census of copies of the Shakespeare First Folios, which was published in 1902 by the Oxford Press as a supplement to its facsimile of the Chatsworth copy. In that census Mr. Lee recorded 158 copies, of which 108 had not been publicly described before; and he is now able to raise the number of known copies to 172. As a result of fuller information Mr. Lee transfers No. LIII from the second class to that containing 43 perfect exemplars; No. cxvii is entitled to a somewhat higher place, but not above the second division of the second class; No. xxxvii was overvalued. Several changes of ownership have occurred since the census was compiled. With regard to the newly discovered copies, Mr. Lee ranges them in order of value and interest as follows: Lady Wantage's copy; the Duke of Norfolk's copy; Bishop Gott's copy; the "George C. Thomas" copy (now in U. S. A.)—all in Class I; the "Turbitt" copy (the original Bodelean copy now restored to the library through public generosity); the "Bixby" copy (now in U. S. A.); the "Dawson-Brodie-Folger" copy; Mrs. A. B. Stewart's copy; the "Scott-Folger" copy—all in Class II; and the copy belonging to the Society of Antiquaries of Scotland; W. C. Knight-Clowes's copy; the "Thorpe-Folger" copy; Mr. Waller's copy, and H. R. Davis's copy—all in Class III.

"Somewhere about 1915 America and Great Britain," Mr. Lee prophesies, "will in all likelihood each own the same number of copies. Marsden J. Perry, of Providence, Rhode Island, and H. C. Folger, Jr., of New York, are now the keenest collectors of Shakespeareana in the world. Mr. Folger is to be congratulated on having acquired in the last few years as many as eight copies of the First Folios in all—a record number for any private collector. It was Mr. Perry who paid for a copy of the first four Folios no less than £10,000; at public sales, the four Folios in their rarest states have not fetched a larger aggregate sum than £3380. Since 1902 the Americans have bought ten copies, then in British hands; but it is consoling to British prejudices to know that thirty-two of the British copies are in public institutions whence untold gold or the almighty dollar is not likely to spirit them away.

The New York Sun for July 15 contains an interesting account of the Shakespeare collections in the possession of H. C. Folger, Jr., E. Dwight Church and William A. White, of Brooklyn, N. Y., Robert Hoe, J. Pierpont Morgan, of New York City, and Marsden J. Perry, of Providence, R. I. Of these the Shakespeare collection of Mr. Perry is rapidly becoming the most valuable in existence.

COMMUNICATIONS.

PROTEST AGAINST PREMATURE ADVERTISING OF BOOKS.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: Is it possible that publishers do not realize the damage done to retailers by advertising their publications as "out to-day, for sale at all bookstores" in advance of their actual publication? In a recent issue of a prominent New York paper there were advertised no less than six books of the above class, for at least two of which we had demands. It is next to impossible to make the customer understand that the books are not yet published, and, as a rule, he departs with the firm conviction that we have made an error through lack of knowledge of our business in so stating, in which belief he is to a great extent justified.

From our standpoint, we fail to see the advantage, if any, to the publishers in making such announcements. The practice works a hardship on the dealer who prides himself on being up to date. Possibly the publisher hopes to create an inflated demand for the forthcoming book by this method, trusting that the dealer may become impressed with the importance of placing a heavy advance order for a book which bids fair to have a large sale. Again, the publisher may be governed by circumstances over which he may have no control. Whatever the cause or excuse for the practice, it is time for the retailer to demand a halt.

I was very much interested in the suggestions of Mr. W. B. Clarke, of Boston, which appeared in a recent issue of the WEEKLY. To my thinking this was the best exposition of the present status of the condition of the retail trade that I have ever read. I would have liked the gentleman to have given his opinion of the prevailing custom of many publishers, not all, who have entered the mail-order field. Since the retailer is the greatest outlet for all publications, and, according to Mr. Brisbane, of the American, is the "shepherd of the reading public," would it not be in line for publishers to add to their advertisements, "to be had at all booksellers," thus giving the book merchant a chance to participate in the profits accruing from the sale.

Since the annual meeting of the American Booksellers' Association, held in this city, I have received many flattering requests from members of the organization, asking me to make public any methods of original advertising which, in my opinion, would be conducive to good results in the matter of increasing the business of the merchant who depended solely on the sale of books. In conforming to these requests, I desire to state as a prologue that the value of an advertisement depends largely on local conditions; what would be of sterling merit in cities would be impotent in towns and villages. My firm belief is that the whole secret of effective advertising schemes is the use of methods which bring a maximum number of people to your store; once this is accomplished you have overcome the majority of difficulties. This result cannot be acquired by advertising that "John Smith is selling good books below cost," or "that John Smith's bookstore is the cheapest place in town to buy books." Such an advertisement promulgated in these days would tend to impress the public that the advertiser is a liar, a poor business man, or that he is trying to foist on it something of no value. In regard to the "selling below cost" ad., the public, almost to a man, is aware that the average cost of selling in almost any retail business is twenty per cent., consequently he would be a poor business man who could not see commercial disaster pending for an institution conducted along the lines mentioned above.

In conversation one day last week with an enterprising young manager of the book department of a large Sixth Avenue store, I elicited the information that his firm demanded, or rather desired, that his department show an annual profit of twenty-eight per cent. gross of the total sales — understand, not on cost price of the goods, but of the selling price. "This," said he, "is impossible, for the reason that sixty per cent. (estimated) of our sales is recent fiction, on which the average gross profit is about fifteen per cent., and, if we are unlucky in having a large amount of copyright remainders left on our hands, the net profit amounts to practically nothing, because of the shrinkage in value." Admitting his statement to be true, and from my own experience I am constrained to believe it is true, it would seem that the greatest leak in book merchandizing lies in this direction. To stop this leak the retailer must either increase the selling price of this class of literature, or obtain a better discount from the publisher. As to the latter, I do not believe the concession can be had to any great extent, considering the expense of royalties to the author, cost of paper, printing, binding, and elaborate advertising, to which must be added the expense of bringing out "first editions" of "dead ones."

Some questions may be raised as to whether or not a general increase of the selling price may not have the effect of curtailing the total amount of copies sold. I think not, as I have found, generally, that people who follow up and buy recent fiction are of that class who have sufficient means to gratify their desires, and a matter of a few cents' increase would not deter them from purchasing what they thing they want.

One of the most salient arguments in favor of the fixed minimum price system is that it establishes a known market value, by means of which the dealer is able to successfully refute any statement made by the prospective customer to the effect that a lower quotation is made by the dealer's competitor. This system also prevents the dealer from falling into the bad practice, common to many, of putting a low price on good sellers. When copyright books become passé, we are forced to sell them at any price they will bring; why then do we desire to put low prices on good sellers?

To those who wrote me regarding novel advertising I desire to say that the amount of time at my disposal will not permit me to write to them severally, but at some time in the near future, through the medium of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, I will exert my best efforts in this direction.

In recapitulation (1) I am in favor of the publishing and selling of all books at a net price, giving a discount to the trade that will give the dealer a living profit; (2) refusing to give an order for any book prematurely advertised as published in advance of the actual publication.

It seems to me these questions might be settled if informally debated upon at an early meeting of the New York Booksellers' Association, to which all the booktrade in New York and vicinity might be invited. Let us "get together" and come to a final conclusion before the issue of fall and winter books, and not wait to get into the predicament of the Arkansas Traveller, who, when asked why he did not put a new roof on his house, replied, "Well, stranger, in wet weather we kaint and in dry weather we don't want none."

Yours sincerely,

R. E. SHERWOOD.

NEW YORK CITY, July 16, 1906.

THE BOOKSELLERS' "WAY OUT."

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: Is there a way out from the present unprofitable, demoralized and seemingly hopeless situation?

There is, and it is plain and easy. It seems fairly amazing the way has not been seen and availed of long ago.

The publishers could cure the trouble in thirty days, if they would. They have already taken the first step, in the "A. P. A.," but, strangely, they don't seem to see the second step.

Or the booksellers can do it without waiting for the publishers—not so easily—but they can do it—easily enough.

How? Pshaw! Aesop showed how—away back—in that little fable about the bundle of sticks.

The writer's little personal experience, twenty-six years ago, gave a demonstration of the way as plain, simple and sure as $2+2=4$.

Frank Lovel, in his last scheme, after twenty-five years' plain view of that Alden "demonstration," has "got onto" a hint of the successful way.

THE WAY OUT, on the publisher's initiative, in the interest of publisher, dealer and bookbuyer, is:

Appoint one Bookseller exclusive local agent in each place (except large cities, possibly more than one), deal with him direct, give him bottom price, don't load him up, but make him carry respectable stock, and give him a free hand so long as he treats the public fair and sells at retail, only, one price for quantity, at home and abroad.

That plan "worked" in 1880-81. It gave Alden his "pick"—the "best" Bookseller in each town, as Agent. The Bookseller liked it—the bookbuyer liked it—there was no "cutting prices" and no "kicking" because prices were high.

That plan adopted by the "A. P. A." to-day would make business lively and settled in short order. Equity would require that the "A. P. A." should see that the appointed local agent should buy out or make a "square deal" with other local dealers.

THE WAY OUT on the Booksellers' initiative, is for Booksellers to "get together," one dealer in each place joining with one in each of several thousand other places and buy together for cash, (no investment and no one responsible for any other.) United, thus, they could, easily, secure, directly or indirectly, for each member of the "Associated Booksellers' bottom jobbers' price on everything and would gradually be able to secure "exclusive" local agencies from leading publishers.

The demoralizing "mail order" book business and "book butchering" generally would be quickly diminished, and in time wiped out, even on the "non-copyrights."

The above is not all. The millions of dollars a year now going past the booksellers from bookbuyers to publishers through "agents" and the humbug, often fraudulent "instalment plans," can be got by legitimate dealers, as well as not. The writer's knowledge of the immense cyclopedia trade, for instance, is such that it seems to him almost "silly" that dealers don't have it all—they can have it, inside of the next five years, if they choose to take it—and without any real investment or risk of money.

Of course there are "details" to be worked out. But they are already thoroughly thought out, and are very simple.

The publishers do not now seem likely to take the initiative in this "way out." Will the booksellers? Will those who are interested, even a few, get together and consult? The "ball" will not be difficult to "roll" and will grow like the snowball at every turn.

Very respectfully,

JOHN B. ALDEN.

BIBLE HOUSE, New York City, July, 1906.

HOPEFUL FOR SAN FRANCISCO.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: Here, at the present time, business of all sorts is being conducted in temporary quarters of all kinds—in basements, in sheds, barns and tents; and, where the individual has been so fortunate as to have retained it, the private residence has been utilized, independently, and indifferent as to location.

Four years ago I closed the store that I had for several years occupied, and removed most of my stock to my residence, to the general discomfort of the other members of the Cowan family, and where in the meantime business has been conducted mainly by correspondence.

There are few in this city that have not lost more or less heavily in the recent disaster, and while my house with its contents fortunately escaped the fire, about two-thirds of my stock was stored within the burned district, and so shared in the general fate. Most of this was strictly local material and its loss is to be regretted.

It has been stated that the American people are born gamblers, and nowhere has that instinct been so strong as in California. Nowhere is it stronger to-day. There is no mourners' bench in San Francisco, and if there were the dust would cover it more thickly than any occupants could. Everywhere cheerfulness (among the people—the burned district is not so encouraging) prevails, and most of the population rejoice in possessing a whole skin. The thousands who yesterday were well-to-do are to-day "busted wide open," but with the old California spirit they return to the game confident of winning.

The book business itself is somewhat superfluous at the present time, but when the period of fever will have subsided, and conditions are nearly normal, we may look for a state of affairs in trade and otherwise quite as good as before.

ROBERT E. COWAN.

SAN FRANCISCO, July, 1906.

COPYRIGHT MATTERS.

ENGLISH MUSICAL COPYRIGHT BILL TO PASS.

THE British government has consented to support T. P. O'Connor's Musical Copyright bill, which insures its passage. It passed the committee stage in the House of Commons, on July 17, amid enthusiastic cheering. It is believed that the enactment of the measure will end the piracy of music and insure protection of foreign composers. American composers and publishers are concerned in the measure because of recent years much American music has been stolen and republished here.

POSTAL MATTERS.

CONGRESSIONAL COMMITTEE TO INVESTIGATE SECOND-CLASS MAIL MATTER.

ACCORDING to an announcement by Henry H. Glassie, secretary of the commission to inquire into and report to Congress its conclusions concerning the laws relative to second-class mail matter, the first session of the commission will be held at the Holland House, New York City, at noon October 1 next. In the announcement Mr. Glassie says in part:

"The report of the Postmaster-General for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1905, shows that the cost of maintaining the entire postal service for that year was approximately $167,000,000, and that the revenue from all sources was approximately $153,000,000. Of all the mail matter handled during that year by this costly service second-class matter constituted approximately two-thirds, while it yielded, on the other hand, but $6,186,647.54, or about one-twenty-fourth of the revenue derived from postage. Not only has the postal revenue suffered by reason of the undue expansion of this class of matter as compared with other classes, but in dealing with the matter itself the postal service is hampered at every step by difficulties and perplexities of administration.

"The rates governing second-class matter are both numerous and involved, and the application of them seems to require a constant inquiry into matters for which an administrative office is not properly equipped. The system as a whole has been repeatedly condemned by Postmasters-General as lacking in simplicity and uniformity and as being confusing to the publishing world as well as to the officials of the service.

"Having these facts in mind, the commission deems it advisable to direct its inquiries especially along the following lines:

"1. Whether the revenue from the second class of mail matter should not be made commensurate with the actual cost of the service rendered in handling it, and whether its classification should not accordingly be grounded upon practical rather than ideal distinctions?

"2. In case second-class matter is not put upon a cost-paying basis, what limitations should be placed upon the matter which may properly be embraced in that class?

"3. By what amendments of existing law may the changes which appear to be advisable be most effectually brought about?

"Owing to the great number of publications concerned, it is obviously impracticable for the commission indiscriminately to extend the privilege of the hearing to individual publishers. Each national organization will be heard orally by not to exceed three representatives designated by the organization, and those classes of publications not having regular organizations will be heard through persons who may be regarded as fairly representative."

OBITUARY NOTES.

BENJAMIN T. REDMAN, one of the earliest publishers of city directories in this country, died on July 18 at the Widows' and Old Men's Home in Cincinnati, aged ninety-three years. "The Old Colonial Directory," a combined directory of Philadelphia and New York, reputed to be one of the first of its kind in America, was issued by Redman.

CHARLES J. ZINGG, president of the Printers' Ink Publishing Company, and editor of Printers' Ink, died in New York City on July 14. Mr. Zingg was born in Switzerland. He was educated in the University of Zurich, and came to this country about ten years ago. Before coming here he travelled extensively in Africa under the auspices of a geographical society of which King Leopold of Belgium was the head. Printers' Ink was established by George P. Rowell. He was still conducting it when Mr. Zingg came to this country, who subsequently acquired the controlling interest.

JOSEPH ASHER SMITH, vice-president and treasurer of E. P. Dutton & Co., died suddenly on Tuesday, July 17, at Bad-Nauheim, in Germany. He had been suffering since April from nervous breakdown and had gone abroad with his wife to recover his health. He was born in New York, January 23, 1858. His father was the founder of Smith & McNell's restaurant. In 1884 he married Emma Clapp, daughter of Charles A. Clapp, of E. P. Dutton & Co., and when Mr. Clapp died, in 1900, his son-in-law was made treasurer. He had been connected with the firm since 1893. Before then he was a broker. Mrs. Smith will sail from Europe on July 24 on the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse with the body.

THOMAS LONGWORTH DAVIS, for upwards of twenty-seven years in the book and stationery business at 481 Sixth Avenue, New York City, died in his native city, Waterbury, Conn., July 16. In 1895 he returned to Waterbury, bought some property and married a young woman who had a candy store in his building. They were not happy, and the old man was legally separated from his young wife, who remarried. He then wrote several poems, two of which were "The Old Horse, Little Mare and Colt" and "My Praying Little Devil." His "Advice to Men About to Marry" and "The Ingrate Rose—a Poet's Farewell to His Faithless Flower," were considered by many as having strong and pointed in the publishing world to publish two novels in January and to continue advertising them in trade journals so long afterward; but part of the CLODE idea is in keeping books alive. Both KARL GRIER, by Louis Tracy, and THE ARNCLIFFE PUZZLE, by Gordon Holmes, are worth being brought to the attention of your customers.

They are splendid reading for any season, and therefore are particularly good for increasing your summer sales.

THE LATE TENANT

Gordon Holmes' new story will be published in September.

NOTES IN SEASON.

THOMAS Y. CROWELL & Co. have just brought out in their unique First Folio Shakespeare edition, "Twelfth Night, or, What You Will!"

THE AUTHORS AND NEWSPAPERS ASSOCIATION, New York City, have just ready their second novel, "The Man Between," by Amelia E. Barr. Of this book, as of their first book, "A Rock in the Baltic," by Robert Barr, only a special edition will be made exclusively for their selling agents—one in each city.

THE G. W. DILLINGHAM COMPANY will publish in August, on the completion of its run as a serial in The Critic, "The Lion and the Mouse," by Charles Klein, author of "The Music Master," etc. The advance orders for the novel are reported to be extraordinarily large, practically the whole of the first edition being already disposed of. This is largely due, of course, to the success of the play. Next season no fewer than four dramatic companies will be presenting the piece in different parts of the United States, and it will probably run another year in New York. The novelization has been made by Charles Klein and Arthur Hornblow, and the book will be illustrated with wash drawings by Stuart Travis.

HERBERT B. TURNER & Co. have in preparation a book entitled "Proofs of Life After Death," a collation, by Robert J. Thompson, of opinions of eminent scientists as to what in their minds are the strongest reasons, outside of theology, of the proofs of immortality. Among those quoted are the late Professor Shaler, Professor S. P. Langley, Professor S. Newcomb, Sir Oliver Lodge, Professor Charles Richet, Sir William Crookes, Professor William James, Professor C. Lombroso, Professor Camille Flammarion, Professor Brunot, Professor Th. Flournoy, Professor Hyslop, and many others. They have also in preparation a book entitled "The Historical Bases of Religions—Primitive, Babylonian and Jewish," by Hiram Chellis Brown. It is a comprehensive survey of evolution of the religious conception from primitive man to Christianity, written from the standpoint of higher criticism. The manuscript has been read and stamped with approval by scholars in this field.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS will publish this month a novel entitled "The Shock of Battle," by Patrick Vaux, who bases a thrilling story upon an imaginary war between Great Britain and Germany, shortly after the opening of the Panama Canal; "The Connecticut River, and the Valley of the Connecticut, three hundred and fifty miles from mountain to sea," by Edwin M. Bacon, a new volume in the Historic Rivers Series, with about 100 illustrations; "The Muscles of the Eye," by Dr. Lucien Howe, an important work, in two volumes, dealing exhaustively with the surgical anatomy and the pathology of the muscles of the eye, the various methods of testing the eyes and the treatment of so-called eye strain, etc., with upwards of 300 illustrations and a bibliography of over 2400 articles carefully classified; "The Interpretation of Nature," by Dr. C. Lloyd Morgan, a philosophical treatise in which the author aims to show that "a belief in purpose as the causal reality of which nature is an expression is not inconsistent with a full and whole-hearted acceptance of the explanations of naturalism within their appropriate sphere"; also, in the Crown Theological Library, a work on "Hebrew Religion to the Establishment of Judaism Under Ezra," by the Rev. William E. Addis, a historical study of the religion of the Jews from the earliest times on well into the fourth century.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

The prices of net books published under the rules of the American Publishers' Association are preceded in this list by a double asterisk , and the word net follows the price. The prices of fiction (not net) published under the rules are preceded by a dagger †. The prices of net books not covered by the rules, whether published by members of the American Publishers' Association or not, are preceded by a single asterisk, and the word net follows the price.

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

Gratacap, L: Pope. A woman of the ice age. N. Y., Brentano's, 1906. c. 3+230 p. O. cl., $1 net.

A love tale of prehistoric times, its date being "thirty thousand years, more or less, before the birth of Christ." The heroine is Lhatlo, the girl of the Sierras, the woman of the Ice Age, living in the warm Fair Land in North America. The hero is Ogga, an ivory hunter. Both are far in advance in speech and thoughts to the prehistoric human being of science. Prehistoric animals of huge size and fierce instincts invade the warm country of the couple's home. The story is one of hunger and danger, elemental passion and thrilling adventure.

William Poel, who arranged the two plays here given, is Director of the Elizabethan Stage Society. In his introduction he says: "These two plays are modified versions of older ones, and the second of them is in all probability a composition by Shakepeare. It originally formed a part of the early chronicle play, 'Edward the Third,' a drama which can be said to have small dramatic or poetic merit beyond the love-scene supplied by Shakespeare. For this reason it is now separated from the rest of the chronicle so as to form a play complete in itself, and it has been given besides an independent title. The first play is also renamed because it has been almost entirely reconstructed to allow of its being acted on the modern stage. Both dramas deal with the subject of unlawful love."

Spargo, J: Socialism: a summary and interpretation of socialistic principles. N. Y., Macmillan, 1906. [Je.] c. 16+257 p. D. cl., $1.25.

The author of "The bitter cry of the children" and "The socialists; who they are and what they stand for" purposes to state in popular language what socialism really means and what it does not mean. He has spent many years in the propaganda of socialism on two continents as lecturer to all classes of audiences. Gives much biographical matter relating to Owen, Marx and others identified with socialism. He endeavors "to state socialism constructively without utopian romanticism." Appendix gives National Platform of the Socialist Party of America as adopted by the Chicago Convention in 1904.

The field work upon which this report is based formed a part of a detailed investigation of the geology and water resources of Long Island conducted by Mr. M. L. Fuller, chief of the eastern section of the division of hydrology, assisted by Mr. Veatch, to whom was given the immediate supervision of problems relating to underground waters. The paper deals with an area in which the problems relating to underground waters are of great importance, especially as they affect city and town supplies. Great interest is manifested in such waters throughout the area, and the report is the result of unusually detailed work.

Viljoen, Benjamin Johannis, General. An exiled general, by Ben J. Viljoen, general late Boer forces, South Africa. [2 pts. in 1 v.] St. Louis, Mo., A. Noble Printing Co., 1906. c. 312 p. il. por. D. cl., $1.50.

General Viljoen was captured by the British towards the end of the Boer War and exiled to St. Helena. While there he wrote the history of the disastrous war which forms pt. 1 of the book. It is now revised since he is living in New Mexico and needs not fear the censure of his British captors. The second part treats of the future of the Boer nation and gives a quiet estimate of the facts of the war and of the underlying causes which brought it about. The book is published wholly in the interest of destitute Boers.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

JULY 7, 1906.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter for advertising pages should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE LONDON TIMES BOOK CLUB.

A LONDON syndicate operating under the cover of an organization named the Times Book Club, ostensibly a circulating library scheme backed by The Times, has been playing havoc with the book business in London for the past month or two, and is now preparing to invade Scotland on the same lines. The plan of the syndicate seems to be first to stimulate the circulation of The Times by supplying books through a circulating library scheme to bona fide yearly subscribers to The Times, which obtains the books from publishers at favorable rates. Having fulfilled their function in this direction, the syndicate recoups itself by throwing the books on the market a few months after publication on the pretext that as they have been used by the members of the club they have become second-hand or shelf-worn. This would be bad enough if the books so offered were restricted to those actually circulated by the club; but it seems that the syndicate has also dragged the market for remainders in all quarters in order to make as big a showing as possible at its so-called "rubbish sale," at which several weeks ago 600,000 books, good, bad and indifferent, were slaughtered at prices ranging from five pence upwards. The result was a temporary paralysis of not only the booktrade, but also of the circulating library trade, as both the booksellers and the libraries in and near London withheld their orders for new books until they might learn how their interests would be protected in the future.

The Publishers' Association of Great Britain, realizing that the course of The Times Book Club, if persisted in, would make book-selling practically impossible and publishing still less profitable, is seeking to enforce a six months' limit for the sale of second-hand net books. The principal libraries at once expressed their willingness to adhere to such a rule, but The Times Book Club declined, preferring to consider a book as second-hand "where it has been used by more than two subscribers, and when it is returned in such a state that it cannot be sold as a new book;" notwithstanding this assertion by "The Thunderer," the Times Book Club gives its published assurance that the copies sold by it will be "in every respect as good as new." While the Publishers' Association is further considering how to cope with this difficulty, Macmillan & Co., Ltd., alive to the danger, and intent upon guarding the interests of their constituents, have issued the following notice to the trade:

"Messrs. Macmillan & Co., Ltd., regret to find that copies of 'The Life of Lord Randolph Churchill,' which was published less than five months ago, are being offered for sale by the managers of The Times Book Club at a very great reduction from the published price.

"As the book is being advertised by The Times Book Club at the head of a list of 'remainders,' the publishers fear that an impression prevails that this work, which is one of the most important of their recent publications, has been 'sold off' at waste-paper price. As such an impression would be most damaging to them as publishers, Messrs. Macmillan & Co. wish it to be understood that this is not the case. The Times Book Club bought a considerable number of copies of this book at ordinary library rates. The copies now offered are presumably those which have been in use in the circulating library.

"In the absence of any agreement as to the time for which a bookseller must have had a copy of a net book in his possession before he can offer it at a reduced price as a 'bona fide remainder,' it is difficult to see how a publisher is to prevent a dealer from selling a book at less than it cost him to buy; but Messrs. Macmillan wish it to be understood that they have not been consenting parties to the transaction referred to above.

"Any retail bookseller having an account with Messrs. Macmillan who has bought a copy of 'Lord Randolph Churchill' from them, and finds himself unable to dispose of it in consequence of the Times advertisements, is invited to communicate with them."

The situation is a grave one for the English booktrade and should also be studied in advance by the American booktrade, as it is not unlikely that the scheme above described will find imitators in this country. As the London Bookseller, in commenting on the question, says: "Unless the publishers unite and put their foot down to prevent this unfair dealing, it is clear that no bookseller will be able to stock a new book of importance, if he is to be faced by the possibility, indeed it would seem the probability, of its being sold by the Times Book Club at remainder prices in the course of a few months. Such uncertainty makes immediate drastic action on the part of all the publishers imperative."

STATE OF PRINTING IN AMERICA IN THE 18TH CENTURY.

CHARLES EVANS, Rogers Park, Chicago, Ill., has just brought out the third volume of his interesting "American Bibliography," covering the period from 1751 to 1764. This period, to quote from Mr. Evans's preface, "finds the art of printing, after one hundred and twenty-five years from its introduction, in 1639, finally established in all of the thirteen original States of the American Union; and it may be of interest to briefly summarize by whom the first presses were founded, and the times and places where the introduction of printing occurred in the several American Colonies. In chronological order this record is as follows: First, Massachusetts, at Cambridge, by Stephen Daye, in 1639; Second, Pennsylvania, at Philadelphia, by William Bradford, in 1685; third, New York, at New York City, by William Bradford, in 1693; fourth, Connecticut, at New London, by Thomas Short, in 1709; fifth, Maryland, at Annapolis, by William Parks, in 1726; sixth, Rhode Island, at Newport, by James Franklin, in 1727; seventh, Virginia, at Williamsburgh, by William Parks, in 1730; eighth, South Carolina, at Charleston, by Eleazer Phillips, Jr., in 1732; ninth, North Carolina, at Newbern, by James Davis, in 1751; tenth, New Jersey, at Woodbridge, by James Parker, in 1755; eleventh, New Hampshire, at Portsmouth, by Daniel Fowle, in 1756; twelfth, Delaware, at Wilmington, by James Adams, in 1761; thirteenth, Georgia, at Savannah, by James Johnston, in 1762. How closely connected in interests the communities in each province were may be inferred from the fact that during the century and a quarter the printing press had been established in only twenty-three centres, of which Pennsylvania had six, Connecticut three; Massachusetts, Rhode Island and North Carolina two each, and the remaining provinces only the centre where printing was begun. How populous these communities were may be estimated from the statement of Ezra Stiles, in his sermon on Christian union, in 1760, that: 'Four thousand British planters settled in New England, and in one hundred and twenty years their posterity are increased to five thousand souls.'

"The introduction of printing during the

eighteenth century was usually begun, or followed soon after, by the publication of a newspaper. Up to the close of the present volume about sixty newspapers had been established and continued for varying periods of publication. Of this number four were established in Connecticut, one in Delaware, one in Georgia, two in Maryland, eleven in Massachusetts, one in New Hampshire, thirteen in New York, three in North Carolina, fifteen in Pennsylvania, three in Rhode Island, four in South Carolina, and one in Virginia. Of all the colonies, New Jersey alone was without a newspaper, and, it may be added, without a common centre for one, for Woodbridge, where James Parker had established his press, was chosen as his birthplace, and not for its availability as a centre for publication. A phase of their publication, worthy of more extended notice, is the adaptability shown by the mothers and wives in assuming the duties of editorship of these journals when death or disaster overcame their husbands or sons. Such women as Cornelia Bradford, at Philadelphia; Catherine Zenger, at New York; Margaret Draper, at Boston; Anne Franklin and Ann Barber, at Newport; Sarah Goddard, at Providence; Mistress Watson, at Hartford; Anne Catharine Green, at Annapolis, and Elizabeth and Anne Timothy, at Charleston, illustrate the high type of colonial womanhood and the mutual interdependence of the family relations in pioneer times. While the trial of John Peter Zenger in New York, in 1735, has established the principle of the freedom of the press in that colony, the experiences of the Rev. Dr. William Smith in Pennsylvania, in 1758; of Daniel Fowle in Massachusetts, in 1754, and John Wilkes in London, in 1763, shows that the principle was not yet of universal application.

THE AUSTRALIAN COMMONWEALTH COPYRIGHT ACT.

THE Australian Commonwealth Copyright Act, 1905, which received the royal assent last month, is to be proclaimed and pass into law at once. "With some claims to rank as a Code," the London Academy says, "the Act undoubtedly marks an epoch in the history of Colonial Copyright. It effects, on the lines of Lord Monkswell's Literary and Artistic Copyright Bills, many notable reforms. Copyright includes the right of abridgment, dramatization and translation. As well as performing right in dramatic and musical works, a lecturing right is created as regards both sermons and lectures. The duration of artistic copyright is assimilated to that of literary copyright, thus establishing homogeneity, but, unfortunately, in the place of the proposed period of Lord Monkswell's Bills—the author's life and thirty years—the old and cumbrous term of life and seven years or forty-two years, whichever be the longer period, has been most unaccountably selected.

"Among other details . . . 'Magazine Copyright' endures for one year only instead of twenty-eight years, as under the Imperial Act of 1842, and the rights of proprietors are strictly limited to publication in their own periodicals. Translations, or abridgments, not the work of the author, must be so declared on the title-page, and after ten years the right of translation, unless exercised, lapses. Notices are made compulsory in the cases of the reservation of performing right in dramatic and musical works. The right of search and seizure is conferred in the case of pirated copies, and penalties provided may be recovered summarily. A simple system of registration is provided for the Commonwealth, but as in England, is only necessary before action brought.

"The Act . . . contains a 'manufacturing clause.' Primarily, its benefits are conferred upon books, etc., whether by British subjects or not, 'printed from type set up in Australia or plates made therefrom or from plates and negatives made in Australia in cases where type is not necessarily used'—an exception which seems to require elucidation. Publication, performance, or delivery must take place either simultaneously with or within fourteen days of first publication, etc., elsewhere. The integrity of Imperial Copyright, of the Berne Convention and International arrangements made by the Imperial Government is, however, sufficiently safeguarded by Part VI., Section 62, which admits literary, musical, dramatic or artistic works 'entitled to protection in Australia by virtue of any Act of the Parliament of the United Kingdom' to the same protection as other works under the Act.

"Some doubts seem to be held as to the operation of this section, but it obviously includes all works embraced by the International Copyright Act, 1886, and all works simultaneously published in England with first publication elsewhere. The condition which is attached to this protection is 'registration under this part of the Act' and, presumably, the deposit under Sections 75 (1) and (2) of two copies of every book and one, or a photograph, of any work of art required from 'every person applying for registration.' The position of the United States is, therefore, unaffected by the Act, but remains exactly as before. Subject to simultaneous publication in the British Empire, American works can be protected in Australia in the same way as British works."

DUFFIELD & COMPANY.

ANNOUNCEMENT is made that the publishing house of Fox, Duffield & Company, from which Mr. R. K. Fox has retired, will hereafter be known as Duffield & Company.

This corporation, organized a little more than three years ago under the laws of the State of New York, has now some three hundred books in its catalogue, including titles acquired by the purchase of the business of Herbert S. Stone & Company, of Chicago. Pitts Duffield is president and treasurer of the company, Frederick A. Richardson is vice-president, and Kenneth G. Duffield secretary.

COMMUNICATIONS.

A. G. SEILER STILL IN BUSINESS.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: I take this means of notifying the trade that I have sold to M. A. Goldrich my branch store known as the New York University Book Store. Mr. Goldrich having printed on his stationery "Successor to A. G. Seiler" has led some dealers to infer that I have entirely sold out, which is not the case. I have sold only the above-mentioned branch in order to devote my energy to my main store and another store which I have recently purchased. Therefore I anticipate doing even a greater business with you than heretofore.

A. G. SEILER.

1222 AMSTERDAM AVE., NEW YORK, June 29, 1906.

UNPROFITABLE BOOKSELLING.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: I was much pleased to see the article by Mr. Clark, of Boston, on "Unprofitable Bookselling" in the WEEKLY. I am in the business again as a matter of pride in my city, and to stay with my city, but I realize that there is no prospect of my making more than the living of a good bricklayer. The absolute folly of trying to maintain publishers' prices on new books in competition with $1.08 prices, I am aware of; yet to me it appears degrading to place myself in the position of a huckster crying, "Cheap! cheap! cheap! Buy my $1.50 books for $1.08! Walk up, gentlemen, trade with me, trade with me!" No, I cannot do it. Even now, here in a city that is in ruins, the shrill, unmanly screech of "cut-rates" is in the air. The book trade will never be one of decent remuneration until we all—bookseller and publisher alike—and I am both, conduct our business in a dignified manner.

I could go on with this subject for a week and then not exhaust my feeling of pity for a business that cannot show a prosperous dealer in New York, Boston, Chicago, St. Louis, New Orleans, Baltimore, Buffalo, Philadelphia, San Francisco, or in any city in the Union. Some may think they are prosperous; but that is again more than pitiful, as their idea of prosperous business is peculiar. I defy the bookseller in any city in all this great country to state that his business is prosperous, and at the same time to state the number of his employees and the salary he pays them. I do not think there is any retail book house in the United States that pays a salary to the intelligent help that is required that would not be ashamed to see the salaries given as a whole—each individual salary paid in the house—published to the world. It is, I again say it, pitiful!

A. M. ROBERTSON.

SIR WALTER SCOTT PROPHESES LITTLE LIBRARY BOOKS.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: That Sir Walter Scott was book-wise beyond most mortals every one who reads his work must recognize, but it is only the bookman who can appreciate how great was his book wisdom. An example of it occurs in the opening phrases of the tenth chapter of "Rob Roy," where may be found a curious and interesting prophecy, or rather a legitimate inference as to the future of books, which has been fully justified by the facts. It is as follows:

"The library at Osbaldistone Hall was a gloomy room whose antique oaked shelves bent beneath the weight of the ponderous folios so dear to the seventeenth century, from which, under favor be it spoken, we have distilled matter for our quartos and octavos, and which, once more subjected to the alembic, may, should our sons be yet more frivolous than ourselves, be still further reduced into duodecimos and pamphlets."

Whether we are more frivolous than in Scott's time or no need not be discussed, but the tendency Sir Walter Scott foresaw has found ample expression in the various little libraries that have been so conspicuous in our bookstores of late years. Although miniature books have been an occasional fad with printers for more than a hundred years, (there occurs to me in this connection the "Thumb Bible," of which an example exists in the Boston Public Library, and of which I have the good fortune to possess another; and also the famous "Circle of the Sciences," published by John Newbery,) it is, I think, only in these later years that the tendency to the diminutive books which Sir Walter Scott foresaw has become more generally marked.

CHARLES WELSH.

WINTHROP, MASS., June 23, 1906.

[It may interest our readers to read in connection with this, Scott's great contemporary, Napoleon I.'s ideas of libraries in little, as described by James Westfall Thompson, in his article "Napoleon as a Booklover," in the July Atlantic.—Ed. P. W.]

OBITUARY NOTES.

ANDREW VARICK STOUT ANTHONY, artist, engraver and writer, died July 2, at the home of his son-in-law, Dr. Henry C. Perkins, at West Newton, Mass. Mr. Anthony was born in New York City in 1838. After his studies were completed he devoted himself to wood engraving, in which branch of art he became a leader. From 1866 to 1889 he had sole charge of the illustrated work issued by Ticknor & Fields and their successors, during which time he projected and superintended the quarto-illustrated edition of Longfellow's works. He also edited for them Young Folks and Every Saturday. Since 1894 he was connected with the literary department of Harper & Brothers. Mr. Anthony was a frequent contributor to the magazines and many of his articles he illustrated himself. He was one of the foundation members of the New York Water Color Society and one of the founders of the St. Botolph Club of Boston.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE Literary Digest has absorbed Public Opinion and will accordingly cover a larger field.

THE Search Light, an excellent digest of the news of the week, has suspended publication.

MAXIM GORKY will give his impressions of America in the midsummer issue of Appleton's Magazine.

The Studio for July contains in its American Section an article on the Rembrandt Tercentenary. Among the special inserts is a reproduction of Rembrandt's famous painting, "The Night Watch."

Appleton's Magazine has succeeded Appleton's Booklovers' Magazine, and with the July number its price has been lowered from twenty-five to fifteen cents the number. A year ago the Appletons bought the Booklovers' Magazine and assumed and paid all its obligations. The name Booklovers has been gradually allowed to vanish and that of Appleton's to increase.

H. G. WELLS, the English novelist and author of "When the Sleeper Wakes," and other works of imaginative prophecy, has just completed a book which will be of interest to his American readers, as it deals with his impressions of life and customs in American communities. Mr. Wells has but recently returned to England from his visit to this country, where the material for the volume was accumulated. Serial rights have been secured by Harper's Weekly, and publication will begin with the issue of July 14, under the title of "The Future in America." Vernon Howe Bailey and E. V. Naderney are the artists selected to illustrate Mr. Wells's striking work.

KATHARINE LEE BATES, head of the department of English literature at Wellesley College, sailed on the Arabic from Boston July 5 for Liverpool. By automobile she will tour the western counties of England from the lake country to Cornwall, accompanied by Katherine A. Coman, of the Wellesley Department of Economics. Miss Coman will take a number of photographs and Miss Bates undertakes this trip through one of the most interesting sections of England on commission to contribute a series of nine articles to the Chautauquan Magazine, entitled "A Reading Journey in Famous English Counties." The magazine series will appear as a part of "The Chautauqua Home Reading Course" for the year of English topics beginning in September.

BUSINESS NOTES.

WAYNE, NEB.—Felker & Jones, booksellers, have dissolved partnership.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

THE Milo'ske Boghandel, Odense, Denmark, has just brought out a second edition of Andreas Dølleris's "Danmarks Boghandlere," a biographical list of Danish booksellers, the first edition of which was brought out in 1893. The new edition contains the sketches of 534 booksellers, covering every detail of their personal history, including even that of their parents' and wives' relations, and of their children if employed in the book business. (382 p. 8°, 7.50 kr.)

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

FREDERICK WARNE & Co. have applied for membership in the Stationers' Board of Trade.

WERNER LAURIE, London, will publish shortly a volume of reminiscences entitled "My Friends the French," by Robert H. Sherard.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will bring out early in September the first and second volumes of the new and complete edition of Ibsen's works.

THE MERCHANTS' HELPS PUBLISHING CO., Delhi, N. Y., has published a suggestive little book entitled "Talks by an Old Storekeeper," by Frank Farrington, author of "Retail Advertising," etc.

THE AMERICAN LIBRARY ASSOCIATION at its annual conference at Narragansett Pier, on July 4, formed a Library Copyright League to guard the interests of libraries in the importation of copyright books issued abroad.

LONGMANS, GREEN & Co. have in press a work by Dr. James Donaldson, entitled "Woman—her position and influence in ancient Greece and Rome and among the early Christians;" also, "Liberty, and Other Sermons," by the Right Rev. Charles H. Brent, Bishop of the Philippines.

THEODORE E. SCHULTE, Twenty-Third Street and Lexington Avenue, New York City, has published Dr. Madison C. Peters's recent sermons addressed to women on "The Sins of Smart Society." The topics dealt with include drinking, card-playing, extravagance and pleasure-seeking as a profession.

ROBERT GRIER COOKE is publishing "In the House of Her Friends," a story of life in college circles by an anonymous writer. This is not written from the point of view of the student. It gives the opinions of each person connected with the college, and includes many character drawings.

THE CENTURY Co. will issue in the autumn "The Châteaux de Touraine," with text by Maria Hornor Lansdale, pictures in color by Jules Guérin and photographs in tint. It will be a very handsome book and will be issued as a companion volume to "Italian Villas," by Mrs. Edith Wharton, illustrated by Maxfield Parrish.

LEMCKE & BUECHNER, 11 East Seventeenth Street, New York City, have made arrangements to publish W. Vietor's "Shakespeare's Pronunciation," consisting of two separate volumes—"A Shakespeare Phonology, with a Rime-Index to the Poems as a Pronouncing Vocabulary," and "A Shakespeare Reader in the Old Spelling, and with a Phonetic Transcription."

"THE JUNGLE" has made a record as a "best seller." It was published late in February with scarcely any advance sales, yet 85,000 copies have been printed to date. Five editions have been published in England, six in Canada and two in Australia. In addition to the list of languages into which it has been translated and in which it has been published, both Swedish and Danish have been added.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY have added to their Medieval Town Series a revised edition of Thomas Okey's book, "The Story of Paris," which originally appeared in 1904. The book has numerous drawings by Katherine Kimball and many reproductions of photographs and maps. The first part gives the "story" of Paris, the second is a sort of guide through the city, for the benefit of the inexperienced visitor.

"BILLY WHISKERS' FRIENDS," by Frances Trego Montgomery, author of "Billy Whiskers' Kids," etc., is to be published August 1 by Brewer-Barse & Co., Chicago, for whom the Reilly & Britton Co. are sole selling agents. The book is after the style of Mrs. Montgomery's other "Billy Whiskers" books, but more elaborately illustrated, having six full-page illustrations in colors and over fifty text pictures and ornamental designs in black-and-white.

THE MAYHEW PUBLISHING COMPANY, of Boston, will publish next month a humorous volume entitled "The Asbestos Society of Sinners," by Lawrence Daniel Fogg, a well known magazine writer and journalist. The book, which is dedicated to John Kendrick Bangs, is a newspaper man's account of a trip to Hades, where he interviewed "Boss" Tweed, Henry VIII., Sherlock Holmes, Shakespeare, Washington, Methuselah, Adam, Eve, and Cain.

LOTHROP, LEE & SHEPARD Co. have in preparation two new books by George Cary Eggleston. One of these is a story of New York life, entitled "Blind Alleys," dealing not with the slums or with the city's exceptional population, but depicting the more typical and significant aspects of life in the great city and those who constitute its real population. The book is illustrated by E. Pollack. The other book, entitled "Jack Shelby," is for boys, and gives much of the author's own experiences and those of his brother, the late Edward Eggleston, in Clifty County, Ind., about sixty years ago.

HARPER & BROTHERS will publish on the 12th inst. Margaret Deland's latest work, "The Awakening of Helena Richie," the story of the birth of a woman's soul, of her realization and renunciation of the past through the unconscious influence of a little child, which strikes deep into the foundations of human sympathy. The background of the story is peaceful old Chester, with its delightful and whimsical old Dr. Lavendar, Willy King, and other old acquaintances. They will publish at the same time the fourth volume in Mark Twain's Library of Humor, under the apt title, "A Little Nonsense." Among the contributors are: Bret Harte, C. D. Warner, R. J. Burdette, "Artemus Ward," J. K. Bangs, Henry A. Shute, Owen Wister, W. D. Howells, Guy Wetmore Carryl, George Ade, J. J. Roche, R. H. Munkittrick, "Bill Nye," S. E. Kiser, "Mr. Dooley," and others. Mark Twain himself is represented by three humorous stories.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS, in their Subscription Department, have in preparation a new issue of "The Works of James Fenimore Cooper," in thirty-three handsome volumes, to be entitled The Iroquois Edition. The edition will have a general introduction by William Crary Brownell, the well-known critic, in which is presented a critical estimate of the position secured by Cooper's writings in the literature of the United States and of the world. It will also include the story of Ned Myers, which does not find place in previous sets, and the full series of the original steel engravings by F. O. C. Darley, who was acknowledged to be the leading draftsman of his generation in connection with the earlier pioneer life of the country, and whose designs were accepted by Cooper himself as most thoroughly characteristic and fitting illustrations for the text of the famous romances. Together with these plates, have been included a series of reproductions in photogravure from designs specially prepared for Cooper's volumes by R. F. Zogbaum, J. T. Richards, H. Sandham, and others. Mr. Brownell's introduction, which was first published, in condensed form, in Scribner's Monthly for April this year, has been printed separately in a neat pamphlet. It has been accepted by critics generally as constituting the most discriminating and trustworthy estimate of the work of America's great romancer.

REILLY & BRITTON's new illustrated catalogue for 1906 shows a large increase in their line. They announce twenty-four new publications for this year, which together with their previous list, makes their line remarkably attractive and strong. The big book in their forthcoming list is, of course, L. Frank Baum's "John Dough and the Cherub," already described by us. Other attractive books are "Annabel," a novel for young folks, by Suzanne Metcalf; "Sam Steele's Adventures on Land and Sea," by Captain Hug Fitzgerald, the first of a series of books for boys; "Aunt Jane's Nieces," by Edith Van Dyne, the initial volume of a new series of books for girls. Following the style of "The Land of Oz," but in miniature form, is a series of six books entitled The Twinkle Tales, all by Laura Bancroft. The titles are "Prairie-Dog Town," "Mr. Woodchuck," "Bandit Jim Crow," "Twinkle's Enchantment," "Sugar-Loaf Mountain" and "Prince Mud-Turtle." In a sense these are nature stories, and have been illustrated in colors by Maginal Enright. "Tony Tompkins—Lion Tamer," by Harriet Scott Barber, is a story of heart interest for those who love children. This is a gift book, sympathetically illustrated by Clyde J. Newman. "Sweethearts Always" is a dainty gift book containing poems of love compiled and arranged by Janet Madison. Each poem is enclosed in a heart-shaped wreath of forget-me-nots in two colors, while the book is illustrated with twelve duotone pictures by H. Putnam Hall. It is also embellished with many designs. At the bottom of each page is a motto or posy ring such as was in olden times engraved in engagement or wedding rings. "Inaugural Addresses," brought out in two volumes from the private plates of the Lakeside Press, contains the inaugural messages of the Presidents of the United States from Washington to Roosevelt, edited by John Vance Cheney. This series of patriotic classics will also contain a one-volume edition of the "Autobiography of Benjamin Franklin" in semi de luxe style.

PICK-UPS.

A DEAD ONE.

BREATHES there a man with soul so dead
Who never to himself has said:
"My trade of late is getting bad;
I'll try another ten-inch ad."
If such there be, go mark him well;
For him no bank account shall swell,
No angel watch the golden stair
To welcome home the millionaire.
The man who never asks for trade
By local line or ad. displayed,
Cares more for rest than worldly gain,
And patronage but gives him pain.
Tread lightly, friends; let no rude sound
Disturb his solitude profound.
Here let him live in calm repose,
Unsought except by men he owes;
And when he dies, go plant him deep,
That naught may break his dreamless sleep;
Where no rude clamor may dispel
The quiet that he loved so well.
And that the world may know its loss,
Place on his grave a wreath of moss,
And on a stone above "Here lies
A chump who wouldn't advertise."

—M. L. Carey, in "The Spokesman."

ONE FORM OF BOOK-SMUGGLING.

A COUPLE of booksellers were recently exchanging stories, when the conversation turned upon the relative profit of the winter and summer seasons. In the course of the conversation one of the veterans was reminded of an incident that will strike a guilty note in the heart of many a book collector. Said he, "one of my most regular customers, a man well on in years, had a method of buying books that puzzled me for a long time. He'd drop in nearly every day during the winter and buy a book or two, remove the outside wrapper, and go off with it. Frequently he'd pay for a set of a dozen or more, but he wouldn't ever let me send them home for him. Instead, he would stop every day after business and go off with a volume under his arm, until the set was gone. Finally, one day I asked him why he did this. He looked sheepish for a moment, then chuckled. It seems he was a great book-collector. In his home every available space had long since been used for bookshelves—every shelf was full, and the surplus was piled up on the library chairs. His wife used to remonstrate with him—wanted him to sign the pledge—but he couldn't resist the temptation. So he fell into the habit of taking his new treasures home under his overcoat, and surreptitiously tucking them away before his wife could see them. This plan worked all right for the winter, but frequently of a hot summer afternoon, when his overcoat was packed away with mothballs, I'd see him, with longing eyes, go by on the other side. 'Perhaps,' said the dealer, with a laugh, 'there are others in the same fix, and that's one reason why more books are sold in winter than in summer.'

THE "INSIDE" PRICE.

MARK TWAIN some time ago told this story at a dinner given to Tax Commissioner Charles Putzel at the Freundschaft Society clubhouse in New York:

"I saw Mr. Putzel twenty-five years ago in Putnam's book store. I went in there and asked for George H. Putnam, and handed in my card. A young man took it in but came back and said that Mr. Putnam was busy and could not see me. I had merely gone there on a social call, and started to leave. As I was going out my eye was attracted to a big, fat, interesting looking book. It was entitled 'The Invasion of England in the Fourteenth Century by the Friars.' I asked the price of it.

"'Four dollars,' was the answer.

"'What discount do you allow publishers?'

"'Forty per cent. off.'

"'Well,' I said, 'I am a publisher.'

"He put down the figures '40 per cent.' on the card.

"I said, 'What discount do you allow authors?'

"He said, 'Forty per cent.'

"'Well,' I said, 'I am an author. You can put that down.'

"'What discount do you allow the clergy?'

"He said, 'Twenty per cent.'

"'Well,' I said, 'I am one on the road.' So I took twenty per cent. for that.

"He put down the figures and never smiled once. Here I was working off all these scintillating brilliancies on him and not even a spark of recognition. I was almost in despair. I thought I would try him once more, so I said:

"'You know I am also a member of the Human Race. Would you allow me ten per cent. off for that?'

"He set that down—never smiled—so I said:

"'There is my card with my address on it. I have no money with me. Send the bill to my home at Hartford.'

"I picked up the book and was going away when he said:

"'Wait a minute; there is forty cents coming to you.'

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small undisplayed advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," book-sellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

Many Booklovers

are attracted into bookstores by the display of our unique publications in the window. Many little items lead to big sales later on.

ONE little item is the DODGE LEAFLETS—an artistic series of motto cards, 5 x 7 inches, printed on a pasted antique bristol in two colors, and costing the trade only $3.00 per hundred.

ANOTHER small, but very attractive article, is our Inspiration Motto Series, Passepartoute form, selling for $10.00 per hundred.

POST card frames are keeping our factory exceedingly busy. They are made to hold any post card, and cost only $7.50 per gross.

DAINTY books in artistic bindings make attractive window displays, and brighten up the store. Why not send for our catalogue to-day?

Makers of Beautiful Books for Booklovers

WINSTON CHURCHILL'S new novel

is in its 200th thousand

Complaints are sometimes heard that novels are not selling nowadays. The reason is not far to seek. Few of the later novels have been really worth while; still fewer have that special charm which makes one reader say to another: "You must read it."

"CONISTON" is proving that the buyers and readers of fiction are more in number than ever. Its appeal to the market is enormous and irresistible.

A Small Outlay With Large Possibilities

Promote Your School Book Business

Booksellers can add to the volume of their business materially by developing carefully the sale of school books in their territory. While the margin of profit appears to be small it must be kept in mind that many schools, especially private schools, colleges and universities, order in quantities; the sale-season, though short, is "snappy" and there is a minimum of danger only in accumulating "dead" stock. When you make a customer for school books, be he the school principal or pupil, you have a customer for other supplies as well and very often you form business friendships with the "book-lovers" of the future.

To aid the bookseller in this branch of his business, we publish yearly an up-to-date "Educational List" containing the titles of current school books and their prices, together with a classified index of subjects. This catalogue we supply at a very low rate in quantities with the dealer's own imprint on front page—cheap enough to warrant any bookseller distributing it among all the educational institutions in his territory.

TERMS FOR IMPRINT EDITIONS

100 Copies $5.00 500 Copies $22.50 1000 Copies $40.00

 Can we interest you? If not familiar with the "Educational List" write for a sample copy.

To the Booktrade

We take pleasure in announcing a new issue of WHITAKER'S REFERENCE CATALOGUE, 1906, which is to be ready for delivery in July. It will consist, as in the last (1902) edition, of two strongly bound volumes. The complete or abridged list of nearly every British publisher of note will be found in the new edition, so that almost every book now in print and on sale in England will be included in the Index. In some form or other every book in the Catalogue is indexed. As a rule the subject of the book is given, but in cases where it appears necessary, books are indexed under the three headings of Title, Subject, and Author's name. The index of the last edition extended to 800 pages, containing more than 130,000 references. As the edition is limited we solicit early orders from booksellers, especially from those dealers who have had the earlier issues of this trade tool and appreciate its value.

The price of the set, 2 volumes, bound in half leather, is $5.00.

A GREAT NOVEL OF ACTION AND MYSTERY
By ROBERT BARR

Leads

Miss Dorothy Amhurst, the famed Bar Harbor beauty, who attracted considerable notice through her unexpected inheritance of $15,000,000 and her subsequent strange disappearance, has returned to America, and the account of her adventures during the several months of her absence is on a par with an Arabian Night's tale for absorbing interest and incredible episode.

Her absence was connected with the baffling mystery surrounding the kidnapping of Prince Lermontoff, of Russia, and the vanishing of Alan Drummond, of His British Majesty's navy. Although the whole matter has not heretofore been made public, it is now set forth in vivid, interest-compelling fashion by Robert Barr, the great English novelist, in his latest, best novel, "A Rock in the Baltic."

"A Rock in the Baltic" is a bit of epoch-making fiction that will be in everybody's library within three months of its publication.

NEVER were the life and spirit of Old California more graphically portrayed than in Mrs. Rya's new romance, "FOR THE SOUL OF RAFAEL." The story is "as full of prismatic light and color as one of the jewels that figure so dramatically in the drama's conclusion."

The conditions that enter into the making of a beautiful book have never been quite so harmoniously brought together as in this regular $1.50 novel.

"FOR THE SOUL OF RAFAEL" is having a lively sale. It will continue to be in brisk demand. It deserves to be vigorously featured by every bookseller.

BE SURE TO GET

The
Sands of Pleasure

By FILSON YOUNG (GUY THORNE)

Author of "When It was Dark," "A Lost Cause," etc.

(Ready July 14th)

"Mr. Filson Young's 'The Sands of Pleasure' is a book of notable distinction, standing as a work of art high amongst the year's publications. The architect-hero, Richard Gray, who builds a magnificent lighthouse on the Cornish coast, completing what his father had begun, has lived until thirty in an atmosphere of self-concentration. Then he visits Paris with a friend, who guides him to Montmartre and to Fontainebleau, where he drinks for a brief while of the wine of specious delight, that leaves an acrid aftertaste of lees. The author has proved himself master of his subject. The descriptions of the lighthouse building are intensely interesting, and the atmosphere of the surroundings is in perfect accord. It is not a light book; there is no badinage, no cheapness of thought or deed. It sets one striving, unavailingly it is true, to find the clue to a certain labyrinth. In the pictures of gay Parisian life—the Bohemia of to-day (which in fundamental matters has changed little since Murger wrote)—no modern English author has been so successful. One is reminded now and then of Daudet at his best, although the vehicle used by Mr. Filson Young is of his own fashioning."—The Sheffield Independent.

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO THE TRADE

We have just published under arrangement with G. & C. Merriam Co. a line of genuine WEBSTER DICTIONARIES which are, pursuant to a large demand, to be sold at popular prices. Hereafter dealers will have

Webster's Condensed Dictionary

1906 EDITION

Authorized and Copyrighted by
G. & C. MERRIAM CO.

A dictionary of the English language, with copious etymologies, accurate definitions, pronunciations, spelling, and appendixes of general reference, derived from the Unabridged Dictionary of Noah Webster, D.D., LL.D., edited under the supervision of Noah Porter, D.D., LL.D., President of Yale College. Webster's Condensed Dictionary contains 46,297 defined words, (2 to 40 per cent more than any other dictionary of similar scope outside of the genuine Webster series,) 1,500 text illustrations, with color maps and charts as follows: a general Map of the United States; a general Map of the World; Flags of All Nations; Flags and Pennants of the International Code; the Signal Service Code; an Astronomical Chart of the Planetary System.

Webster's Condensed Dictionary has been the model upon which many so-called "Webster" and other dictionaries of high-sounding titles have been built. These have been sold to the public in cheap bindings and printed poorly on cheap paper in order to appeal by price instead of merit. Webster's Condensed Dictionary is designed to meet all conditions squarely in the face by reason of its authoritative contents, greater scope, original and better illustrations, standard of manufacture, paper, press work and bindings. The Condensed is well up to date, containing latest words, meanings and derivations. Not only is it protected by copyright, but also by Registered Trade-mark. Additional to its department of definitions is an appendix containing a pronouncing vocabulary, abbreviations in writing and printing, arbitrary signs, etc. Examples of new words: Radium, Tonneau, Limousin Chauffeur, Lingerie, Coherer, Acetylene, Graft, etc.

Printed on high quality of paper.

Size $7\frac{3}{4} \times 5\frac{3}{4} \times 1\frac{3}{4}$ inches.

Bound in three styles, viz:

Extra silk finish cloth, with side and back stamping in gold, marbled edges, double thumb-index cut on edge. Price $1.25.

Half morocco, side and back stamping in gold, marbled edges, double thumb-index cut on edge. Price $1.50.

Library edition, bound in genuine flexible morocco, gold side and back stamping, rounded corners, extra marbled edges, with double thumb-index. Price $2.00.

Weight packed for shipment (each book) 36 ounces.

Webster's Practical Dictionary

1906 EDITION

Authorized and Copyrighted by

G. & C. MERRIAM CO.

The Practical is all that its name implies—a practical dictionary of the English language, embodying the 31,465 words in practical use. While this dictionary is an abridgment of the well known Webster's Condensed Dictionary, it carries more words than any other handy sized dictionary, excepting the genuine Webster series, not to speak of its better illustrations and its definitions of later words, such as antitoxin, lyddite, chauffeur, automobile, radium, mercerized, limousine, etc. The authorship is the same as that of the Unabridged and Condensed dictionaries. Like the larger Websters, its authority is genuine and endorsed as such by educators. The Practical is published in three styles, designed to meet the needs of the public at most reasonable prices.

The Ideal edition contains 634 pages, including the dictionary proper with its 1200 illustrations and an appendix of 106 pages. The appendix consists of a pronouncing vocabulary, alphabetical list of abbreviations, arbitrary signs, the metric system, etc. Printed on extra book paper from new type set plates and substantially bound in durable extra cloth.

Size $7\frac{1}{4} \times 5\frac{1}{4} \times 1\frac{1}{4}$ inches. Weight ready for shipment, 26 ounces. Price, 80 cents.

The Concise edition contains 528 pages, but corresponds exactly to the Ideal except that the 106 pages of appendix are omitted. It is printed and bound in the same style and on the same high grade of paper.

Size, $7\frac{1}{4} \times 5\frac{1}{4} \times 1$ inch. Weight, packed for shipment, 20 ounces. Price, 65 cents

The Popular edition is identical in contents with the Concise edition, containing 528 pages. It is well printed on a good grade of paper and bound in durable cloth.

Size, $7\frac{1}{4} \times 5\frac{1}{4} \times 1$ inch. Weight, packed for shipment, 16 ounces. Price, 40 cents

NOTES IN SEASON.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will publish early in the fall F. Hopkinson Smith's "The Tides of Barnegat," also, a new Western story of adventure and conflicts between cowboys and railroad men, by Frank A. Spearman, author of "The Daughter of a Magnate," etc.

A. C. McCLURG & Co. have in preparation an attractive book for children to be entitled "The Good Fairy and the Bunnies," by Allen Ayrault Green. The author has received a large number of complimentary letters from his young readers while the story was appearing in serial form—a most sincere form of appreciation. The book will be illustrated, in colors, by Frederick Richardson.

P. BLAKISTON'S SON & Co. have just published a work on "Entomology, with special reference to its biological and economic aspects," by Dr. Justus Watson Folsom. This book has been written with the aim of giving a comprehensive yet concise account of insects, and in an effort to provide a text-book for students which treats the subject of entomology from the biological and practical standpoints. The numerous illustrations in the book are chiefly from the author's original drawings.

DANA ESTES & Co. have just ready a new novel by Filson Young, (Guy Thorne,) author of "The Happy Motorist," etc., entitled "The Sands of Pleasure." The scene of the story shifts from the Cornish coast, where the hero is engaged in building a magnificent lighthouse, completing what his father had begun, and where, until thirty, he lived in an air of self-concentration, to Paris, where, in the gay surroundings of Montmartre and Fontainebleau, he loses his illusions and finds his true self.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. bring out this week "The Frog Book," by Mary Dickerson; "How to Make a Fruit Garden," by S. W. Fletcher; "Cotton," by Charles W. Burkett and Clarence H. Poe; also, the ninth and tenth parts of "The Dog Book," which are devoted to hounds, house dogs, toy dogs, etc. Next week they will publish the long-heralded and much-postponed "Recollections and Letters of George Washington," the letters being addressed by Washington to Tobias Lear, his confidential friend and secretary, whose recollections of the home life at Mt. Vernon give an intimate picture of a great man. They will publish at the same time a brilliant novel of Continental life by E. Nesbit, (Mrs. Hubert Bland,) entitled "The Incomplete Amoralist." This book, which takes its author out of the class of writers of children's stories and causes her to be ranked with our important women novelists, is the story of a man who is a universal lover, and who is finally bitten by a real passion himself.

THE REILLY & BRITTON COMPANY have published under arrangement with the G. & C. Merriam Co. five popular series of Webster's dictionaries, as follows: "Webster's Condensed Dictionary," which contains 46,297 defined words, 1500 text illustrations, color maps, charts, etc., and is bound in cloth, half morocco and in flexible morocco, retailing at from $1.25 to $2; "Webster's Practical Dictionary," an abridgment of the "Condensed," containing 31,465 words in daily use, also put up in three styles of binding; the Ideal edition, a handy volume, containing the dictionary proper, with 1200 illustrations and an appendix with a pronouncing vocabulary, list of abbreviations, arbitrary signs, etc., to retail at 80 cents; the Concise edition, which is identical with the Ideal edition, except that the appendix is omitted, a handy volume retailing for 65 cents; also, the Popular edition, which is identical with the Concise edition and gotten up to retail for 40 cents. These issues will meet the demand for inexpensive dictionaries, based on the Webster standard.

Sudermann, Hermann. The undying past; tr. by Beatrice Marshall. N. Y., J: Lane Co., (The Bodley Head,) 1906. 3+282 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Leo Sellenthin had killed the man his mistress had married, in a duel, and had just returned to his German estates after an absence of six years when the story opens. He finds his best friend married to the woman who had before done him so much harm. The story shows how far-reaching are the consequences of sin and heredity. The author is the dramatist whose pessimistic psychological plays have made him a great name in German literature.

Sweetland, C: A: A B C of loose-leaf book-keeping: giving many valuable suggestions to those who have opened or intend to open a set of loose-leaf books. [St. Louis, Mo., Charles A. Sweetland, 1906.] c. 22 p. nar. S. pap., 25 c.

The loose leaf ledger differs from the old style book in that the indexing features run through the book itself, and the accounts, as each one is treated as a unit, can be removed from the covers and rearranged to suit any alphabetical arrangement that is desired.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

JULY 14, 1906.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter for advertising pages should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

BACKING THE BOOKSELLER.—I

THE course of action pursued by the Macmillan Company in this country and in Canada, in their dealings with libraries and certain other possible customers for miscellaneous books not engaged in the retail trade,—with certain exceptions, such, for example, as those interested in school books, which unfortunately is a special branch of the publishing business—to which reference was made some weeks since, if consistently followed by the whole publishing trade, would do much towards the rehabilitation of the bookseller. It is as true to-day as it was in the days of the Apostles, that "if a house be divided against itself, that house cannot stand;" in other words, a publisher must make and publish books, and the bookseller must promote a demand for them and distribute them among the public. The publisher cannot—unless the publishing is restricted to a few special books—combine the functions of a distributor with those of a publisher without injury to either one or the other of these functions; and even in the exceptional cases we have in mind, the publisher of a few special books would fare better if his books were handled through an alert and enterprising retail trade than he does by attempting their distribution himself.

In almost every other country the booktrade is generally divided into four divisions after the manuscript has left the author, namely, the printer, the bookbinder, the publisher and the retailer. Even in the cases where the foreign publisher is also a manufacturer, a perfectly natural combination, no other agent is allowed to interpose between the publisher and the bookseller, the supply of books in every case being direct from the publisher to the bookseller and from the bookseller to the public. It must be clear to even the densest observer that this division is an eminently rational and economical one. The German publisher, for example, in planning a book is able to estimate approximately what the possible demand for it may be, and he need not, therefore, dissipate his time, strength and capital in marketing it. For this service the publisher is able to rely upon well-organized and efficient channels of distribution—the more than 10,000 booksellers established in about 2000 cities and towns in Germany, Austria and Switzerland, and, if desired, he may put himself into communication with nearly 1200 more booksellers who handle German books in upwards of 300 cities and towns in the other countries of Europe, in America, Africa, Asia and Australia. It is sufficient for the publisher that he notifies the bookseller of his new publications through their trade journal, with its paraphernalia of order slips, etc., and the bookseller, who is expected, either personally or by proxy, to study his trade journal carefully, may day by day keep himself fully informed of the movements of the publishing trade; indeed, as ignorance of the law is no excuse, the publisher entrusts even his most important announcements to his trade journal, well aware that it will command attention. In exceptional cases only does the publisher address also the public on behalf of his books through the medium of the newspaper or magazine, or by means of circulars; but it is hardly necessary to add that no publisher would think of dealing directly with the book-buying public, whether public institutions or private buyers, and that to solicit such patronage would be anathema. There are some exceptions, but these would hardly prove the rule.

The conditions in this country, as our readers are well aware, are vastly different, and from some of them the retail booktrade has weakened and suffered for years. Realizing how difficult it would be to bring about a change, and how long a time would be consumed in the process, many able booksellers during the past two decades have given up the struggle and have turned their hands to other and more profitable callings.

The organization of the booktrade as we know it to-day is a heritage of its beginnings. When printing was first introduced into the American colonies the printer, naturally, was also the bookseller. Foreign books were occasionally brought into this country and sold by the importer of miscellaneous goods, including "Dutch oil cloths," "hair seating," cutlery and articles of "bigotry and virtue." It was not until early in the nineteenth century that publishing and bookselling were differentiated, and even then a large number of publishers continued to manufacture, and the bookseller divided his attention between the selling of books and the making of inks and blank books and the selling of the primitive articles now included under the comprehensive designation of "stationery."

The printer-publisher, while welcoming the division of labor, nevertheless could not subdue his hankering after orders from public and private institutions, colleges, schools, libraries and others, and so he added a so-called jobbing adjunct to his publishing business. After years of experimenting with such jobbing departments, the publishing houses that maintained them found them unprofitable and eliminated them altogether, or, in some cases, readjusted them so as to become retail stores proper, including mail order and library supply departments. The skimming of the cream of the booksellers' constituency through these adjuncts of the publisher's business continued until the advent of the cheap libraries in the early eighties, when the department store also rose to trouble the bookseller. At that time many of the abler booksellers turned their backs on the profession, and a number of the weaker ones went to the wall, leaving the trade at almost low ebb. Failing to perceive that one of the principal causes of the decay of the retail trade was the competition of the publisher with the retailer for what should be to the bookseller his principal support, the publisher still more dislocated the methods of distribution by entering the bookseller's local domain, and, by large and reiterated advertising, undermined even this last mainstay of the bookseller by soliciting orders from the public and supplying their books direct through their mail-order departments. It is indeed a wonder that so many booksellers had the courage to endure, even though to exist they were obliged to give the greater part of their time to the distribution of other lines in which a better living was made possible.

As the years went by, and the retail book-trade became still more decimated, discouraged and disorganized, the publisher, of necessity, was obliged more and more to undertake the direct marketing of his books to the public himself. The school-book trade, once a very profitable source of income to the bookseller, was the first to isolate itself, and it is now carried on at a tremendous expense to the publisher. Next, the publishers of law and medical books undertook to reach their public by the cumbersome and wasteful colportage system, by which method, also, many other special and high-priced books were marketed.

To market the miscellaneous books, especially the more popular ones, such as fiction, the publisher has been compelled to strain every nerve, and to expend sums for advertising of all kinds out of all proportion, it would seem, to the results attained. So great has been the waste in this direction that many publishers frankly admit that there is small profit in publishing miscellaneous books, and that the frequent failures in publishing fiction too closely balance the profit earned by the big sellers.

A GERMAN VIEW OF COPYRIGHT IN RELATION TO UNDERSELLING.

SIMULTANEOUSLY with the decisions rendered in the suits of the Bobbs-Merrill Company and Charles Scribner's Sons against the Macy's, the German Imperial Court, the final judicial authority, rendered similar decisions in the suit brought by the publishing firm Union, of Leipzig, against Hermann Schmoller, of Frankfurt-a.-M., for alleged violation of the copyright law by cutting the prices of its books, and in the suit brought by Albert Koenig, of Guben, against the firm of Jandorf, a department store in Berlin, to decide the question whether an author, under the provisions of the German copyright law, can compel a third party to maintain the price of his book.

When the suit of the Union against Schmoller was brought before the County Court of Frankfurt-a.-M., the court decided against the defendant on the ground that "a violation of copyright is possible even if the offense does not consist in an actual reprinting of the book. The author, and the publisher also, may prohibit the underselling of their book, and they may also determine the price at which their book must be sold in different localities. After the plaintiff had warned the defendant against selling his book below the price fixed, defendant by disregarding such warning rendered himself liable, because the sale of a book is equivalent to publishing. The defendant in this instance was fined 100 marks. The Imperial Court, on the contrary, was of the opinion that the copyright law did not apply to this case and found for the defendant, with costs.

In the suit brought by Albert Koenig against Jandorf the plaintiff declared that he had made contracts with the retail book-trade to maintain the price of his "Kursbuch" at 50 pfg., but that the defendant had probably obtained its books either surreptitiously or through a dealer who violated his contract. Plaintiff, to discover the source of defendant's supply, then marked each of his books with a number, which number being affixed to a corner of the fly-leaf was clipped off by the defendant. Plaintiff therefore brought suit to protect himself. The County Court of Berlin dismissed the suit, and was sustained in its decision by the Supreme Court of Judicature on the following grounds: Copyright is intended to protect the author against unauthorized use of his work, that is, by reprinting it either in part or entire, and against a breach of contract between the originator of a work and the first purchaser. Such protection, however, could not be extended to an article after it has once been sold. It was also denied that the underselling of an article was an offense against morals, [Gute Sitten, as provided for in the Gesetzbuch,] because such practice is usual among merchants. If the defendant had obtained its books rightfully it was at liberty to dispose of them in whatever manner it chose, plaintiff having been unable to prove in what manner defendant had obtained its books. Koenig appealed to the Imperial Court, which, however, upheld the Supreme Court of Judicature, holding that there was no ground either in the organic law or the laws of the German empire upon which to enjoin the defendant against selling its books in any other manner than that prescribed by the plaintiff. A so-called absolute right in a publication that extended to every copy made of it the court considered neither conceivable nor feasible. An appeal to the patent law, the court held, also could not apply, because the inventor is only protected against an unauthorized reproduction of his invention, and cannot control the manufactured article after he has sold it.

CONGRESS TO INVESTIGATE SECOND CLASS MAIL MATTER.

CONGRESS in its bill of appropriation for the service of the Post-Office Department for the ensuing fiscal year, introduced the following provision:

"That there shall be appointed a joint commission of Congress, consisting of three Senators, to be appointed by the President of the Senate, and three members of the House of Representatives, to be appointed by the Speaker of the House, whose duty it shall be to investigate, consider and report, by bill or otherwise, to Congress its findings and recommendations regarding the second class of mail matter. The said joint commission shall have power to employ clerks and stenographers, administer oaths, send for persons and papers, and do all things necessary for the carrying out of its objects. For the payment of such actual and necessary expenses as may be incurred by the said joint commission in travelling and for the rental of quarters, printing, and other miscellaneous expenses of the joint commission the sum of twenty-five thousand dollars is hereby appropriated out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, to be paid out on the order of the chairman of the joint commission."

NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF NEWS-DEALERS.

THE twenty-seventh annual convention of the National Association of Newsdealers, Booksellers and Stationers of America will be held on August 21 and 22 in Chicago, Ill. Already a large number of dealers has promised to attend, and the convention is expected to be one of the most important ever held by the Association.

Those interested, who may wish to identify themselves with the Association, are requested to write to the national secretary, A. Hillman-Russin, 19 Park Place, New York City.

COPYRIGHT MATTERS.

PERFORATED MUSIC SHEETS NOT INFRINGEMENT OF COPYRIGHT.

THE United States Circuit Court of Appeals has unanimously affirmed the decision of the United States Circuit Court, rendered by Judge Hazel, who declared that perforated music sheets or records used in connection with mechanism are not an infringement of copyrighted musical compositions. The decision of Judge Lacombe, Judges Townsend and Cox concurring, as summed up in the New York Law Journal for July 6 is as follows:

"The questions raised in these cases are of vast importance and involve far-reaching results. They have been exhaustively discussed in the clear and forcible briefs and arguments of counsel. We are of the opinion that the rights sought to be protected by these suits belong to the same class as those covered by the specific provisions of the copyright statutes, and that the reasons which led to the passage of said statutes apply with great force to the protection of rights of copyright against such an appropriation of the fruits of an author's conception as results from the acts of defendant.

"But in view of the fact that the law of copyright is a creature of statute, and is not declaratory of the common law, and that it confers distinct and limited rights, which did not exist at the common law, we are constrained to hold that it must be strictly construed, and that we are not at liberty to extend its provisions, either by resort to equitable considerations or to a strained interpretation of the terms of the statute.

"We are, therefore, of the opinion that a perforated paper roll, such as is manufactured by defendant, is not a copy of complainant's staff notation for the following reasons:

"It is not a copy in fact; it is not designed to be read or actually used in reading music as the original staff notation is, and the claim that it may be read, which is practically disproved by the great preponderance of evidence, even if true, would establish merely a theory or possibility of use, as distinguished from an actual use. The argument that because the roll is a notation or record of the music it is, therefore, a copy, would apply to the disc of the phonograph or the barrel of the organ, which, it must be admitted, are not copies of the sheet music. The perforations in the rolls are not a varied form of symbols substituted for the symbols used by the author. They are mere adjuncts of a valve mechanism in a machine. In fact, the machine or music playing device is the thing which appropriates the author's property and publishes it by producing the musical sounds, thus conveying the author's composition to the public.

"The decree is affirmed, with costs."

OBITUARY NOTES.

JULES ADOLPHE BRÉTON, the celebrated French painter, died in Paris, July 5. He was born in Courrières, (Pas-de-Calais,) in May, 1827, and was a pupil of Drolling and Devigne. His best-known pictures are "The Return of the Harvesters," "The Gleaners" and "The Communicants." Bréton was also known as a poet, and in 1890 he published his autobiography under the title of "Vie d'un Artiste—art et nature."

DR. CHRISTOPHER COLUMBUS LANGDELL, Dane professor of law emeritus at Harvard University, died in Cambridge, Mass., July 6. Dr. Langdell was born in Hillsborough County, N. H., May 22, 1826. He studied at Harvard in 1848 and 1849, and then, after teaching a time, took a course at the Harvard Law School, from which he was graduated in 1853. He practiced his profession in Cambridge until 1870, when he was elected Dane professor of law and dean of the law faculty at Harvard. His books include "Selection of Cases on the Law of Contracts," "Cases on Sales," "Summary of Law of Contracts and Equity Pleading," and "Cases in Equity Pleading."

WILLIAM BALLANTYNE, one of the oldest booksellers in Washington, D. C., died on July 7, at his summer home in Siasconset, Mass. Mr. Ballantyne was born in Scotland seventy-nine years ago and came to New York when a young man, settling in the book business on his own account. Acting upon the advice of Robert Carter he went to Washington, in 1852, and became a member of the firm of Gray & Ballantyne. Mr. Gray retired a few years later, and Mr. Ballantyne continued the business under his own name until April, 1878, when his eldest son, Robert Carter Ballantyne, was admitted as a partner and the firm became William Ballantyne & Son. When the younger son, William Ballantyne, Jr., became a partner, the firm name was changed to William Ballantyne & Sons. The firm, which does a large trade in books and stationery, has been for many years located at 428 Seventh Street. During the last five or six years Mr. Ballantyne has not been very active in business on account of failing health, but when in the city was almost always at his desk for a couple of hours daily. He is survived by two sons, his associates in business, and by a daughter.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

CHARLES BATTALL LOOMIS is putting the finishing touches to "Cheer Up," his new book, for James Pott & Co., preparatory to sailing for London to visit Jerome J. Jerome.

PROFESSOR EDWARD A. STEINER, of Grinnell College, Iowa, has sailed for Europe under commission from Fleming H. Revell Company to visit centres of emigration in the interest of his book, "On the Trail of the Immigrant," to be published this fall.

BUSINESS NOTES.

BALTIMORE, MD.—The John Murphy Company will open a bookstore in the Park Avenue Building.

MANILA, P. I.—E. M. Webster has been appointed receiver for the Van Buskirk Crook Company.

OGDEN, UTAH.—The Ross Book and Stationery Co. has changed the name of the concern to the Utah Stationery Company.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—The Franklin Bookshop, (Samuel N. Rhoads,) has outgrown its quarters at 1105 Walnut Street and removed to 210 West Washington Square, where there is larger space for the display of books, prints and manuscripts.

ST. PAUL, MINN.—The St. Paul Book and Stationery Company have taken a ten years' lease on a new three-story building in course of erection on East Sixth Street, between Minnesota and Cedar Streets. The building will be 50 x 100 feet and, with the basement, will give them 20,000 square feet of floor space. They expect the ground floor to be ready some time in October, and during the holidays will probably run two stores, as the lease on their present quarters at Fifth Avenue and St. Peter Streets will not expire until next May. The St. Paul Book and Stationery Company is the direct descendant of the firm of D. D. Merrill Co., which was established in 1859 by Daniel D. Merrill, who was actively connected with the management of the concern until his death in May, 1896. In 1879 D. D. Merrill & Co. and White, Stone & Co. combined forces as the D. D. Merrill Company, which in the fall of 1893, owing to the personal failure of Daniel D. Merrill, was obliged to liquidate. In February, 1894, the concern was reorganized as the St. Paul Book and Stationery Company, with Daniel D. Merrill, Clarence H. Slocum and Joseph H. Beck as active officers. The firm, which has always been a powerful factor in the Western booktrade, has made great strides during the past decade, and has several times been obliged to seek larger quarters; so that, if it continues to grow in the same proportion, in another ten years it may be obliged to look for a six-story building. The present officers are Mrs. A. M. Slocum, president; Joseph H. Beck, vice-president; Clarence H. Slocum, secretary and manager, and Clarence W. Sanders, treasurer.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.—Goldsmith Bros. have opened a new store at 2809 California Street, and carry a full line of books, stationery, magazines, etc. Will be glad to receive catalogues and samples in their line. They report that they have collected insurance in full, though their loss above insurance is estimated at about $5000.

SCRANTON, PA.—At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the International Text-book Co. the following directors were elected for the coming year: T. J. Foster, R. J. Foster, E. H. Lawall, W. L. Connell, J. K. Griffith, T. E. Jones, F. T. Patterson, C. D. Jones, C. D. Sirrpson. The present officers were re-elected.

SEATTLE, WASH.—The Lowman & Hanford Stationery and Printing Company opened their new store at 616 to 620 First Avenue, on the 7th inst., on which occasion they arranged an exhibition of fine bindings by the noted binders of the world.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

WILLIAM H. SMITH, JR., 515 West 173d Street, New York City, has in preparation a "Bibliography of Lincoln Literature," to be published early in the fall. Mr. Smith has collected 1200 items, each of which will be supplied with the price at which it has sold at auction, making the work of particular value to the bookseller, librarian and collector. The edition will be limited to 250 small paper copies and fifteen copies on large paper.

The Bulletin of Bibliography for July, published by the Boston Book Company, contains a reprint, from the Handbook for the Narragansett Pier A. L. A. meeting, of Clarence S. Brigham's "Bibliography of the Narragansett Country," the first part of a bibliography of "Prose Fiction," by Nathaniel L. Goodrich, of the New York State Library, giving a list of books and essays in English relating to the theory of prose fiction in general, and to the history of English and American fiction from the publication of "Euphues" of Lyly, in 1579, to the present year; pt. 23 of the second series of George Watson Cole's bibliography, "Bermuda in Periodical Literature, with occasional references to other works;" the department of "Births and Deaths," that is, a record of new titles, changed titles and deaths in the periodical world; also, the "Index to Reference Lists Published by Libraries," compiled by Elizabeth Cranston, of the Providence (R. I.) Public Library, which will hereafter be published monthly in the A. L. A. Booklist, and cumulated quarterly in the Bulletin of Bibliography.

CATALOGUES OF NEW AND SECOND-HAND BOOKS.—Théophile Belin, 48 Rue Cambon, Paris, Rare books, manuscripts and miniature

books of hours, fine bindings, etc. (1164 titles. 1 fr.)—Bertram Dobell, 77 Charing Cross Rd., London, Rare books, including books from the collections of Edwin Truman, W. W. Robinson, J. A. LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

ARCHIBALD CONSTABLE & Co., London, will publish at once Marie Corelli's new novel, "The Treasure of Heaven, a Romance of Riches."

B. W. HUEBSCH is showing his line of diaries, "Huebsch's Year Book," for 1907 and perpetual, to stationers, and his publications to booksellers, in the middle West. The trade west of the Mississippi is being visited in the interest of the same goods by C. R. Faris.

H. M. CALDWELL COMPANY have in preparation "The Wishbone Boat," by Miss Alice C. D. Riley, which describes the journey, in a wishbone boat, of a princess and her fool to strange lands in search of the beauty which both lacked. The story will be illustrated by L. J. Bridgman.

FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY have in preparation for the fall "The Adventures of Billy Topsail," a sea book for boys, by Norman Duncan; also, "The Undertow," a new book by Robert E. Knowles, whose "St. Cuthbert's" has survived two seasons with increasing strength and popularity.

LONGMANS, GREEN & Co. have in press "A Girl of Resource," by Eyre Hussey, author of "Miss Badsworth, M. F. H.," "Heroes of European History," by the widow of Dr. Mandell Creighton, Bishop of London; also, "The Correspondence of Two Brothers," the brothers being Edward Adolphus, eleventh Duke of Somerset, and Lord Webb Seymour.

It is proposed by Dr. I. Colijn, of Upsala, Dr. K. Haebler, of Dresden, and others, to organize a society for the study of incuna-bula, that is, to supplement the work of Hain, Proctor and others, and of the projectors of the general catalogue of all incunabula, by reproducing in facsimile the largest possible number of types used by the early printers. The society is to be named Gesellschaft für Typenkunde des xv. Jahrhunderts, and the yearly dues are not to exceed twenty-five marks, which will entitle the members each year to receive a portfolio of about 100 plates. Dr. Isak Colijn, of Upsala, is temporary secretary, and Rudolf Haupt, bookseller at Halle-a-S., is temporary treasurer.

MCLOUGHLIN BROTHERS have in preparation a new series, The Athletic Library, which will contain stories of field sports by writers who are recognized as authorities on their subjects, as well as lovers of the sports that delight American boys and girls. The initial volume will be "Midget Blake, Pitcher," by Leslie W. Quirk, author of "Baby Elton, Quarterback." Another new series in preparation is the American Boys' and Girls' Library, which will contain stories illustrating the life and times of American boys and girls who lived in the long ago, as well as the boys and girls of our own times. The initial volume in this series will be "Judy, Heroine," a Rhode Island story of the time of Roger Williams, by Elizabeth Preston.

ALEXANDER MORING, London, has just published "The Story of the Laxdalers," translated from the Icelandic by the late Robert Proctor. This translation of one of the finest of the sagas was printed under Proctor's directions at the Chiswick Press in the year of his death. Though without ornament of any kind, the book is an almost perfect piece of printing, and was exhibited for its typographical merit both at the St. Louis Exhibition and lately at the "Arts and Crafts." On its appearance, in 1903, it was not sent out for review nor advertised in any way, and Proctor even postponed circulating a little prospectus which had been set up until he should have returned from the holiday on which he met his death. The volume is thus now practically offered to booklovers for the first time.

LOTHROP, LEE & SHEPARD COMPANY have among their fall announcements a novel entitled "Hearts and the Cross," by Harold M. Kramer, one of the group of Indiana journalists who have contributed so much good material to recent literature. The story is of a man whose vigorous personality enables him to do justice to himself, and to secure justice for himself, under most trying conditions. The story is illustrated by Harold Matthews Brett. They will add to their Phillips-Exeter Series "With Mask and Mitt," by A. T. Dudley. The new volume continues the subject of baseball, although it is very much more than merely a baseball story. The volume will be illustrated by Charles Copeland. Two new Stratemeyer books are also promised—"Dave Porter in the South Seas," a new volume in the Dave Porter Series, and "Trail and Trading Post," a new volume in the Colonial Series. A. B. Shute has made the illustrations for both books.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small undisplaced advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their Communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges. Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors. It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly," does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

Clark Russell's

NEW BOOK

THE YARN OF OLD HARBOUR TOWN

A Sea Romance, by W. CLARK RUSSELL, author of "The Romance of a Midshipman," etc. $1.50

A tale that breathes the freshness and freedom of the sea. There is life and spirit and action and the indescribable charm of life on or near the ocean. The plot is most ingenious and well worked out, the interest throughout never lags, and the characters are unusually natural and life-like,—that of Lucy Acton, the heroine, being particularly good. A clever tale.

THE GIRL OUT THERE

By KARL EDWIN HARRIMAN

Author of "The Girl and the Deal." Six full-page illustrations. $1.25

The Chicago Record-Herald says:

"It does one good to read it. Such brave, honest people! Such a sane and simple plot, with such a happy ending! It rings with true cadences of humor and pathos, and a sound yet tender spirit runs through it all."

A Small Outlay With Large Possibilities

Promote Your School Book Business

Booksellers can add to the volume of their business materially by developing carefully the sale of school books in their territory. While the margin of profit appears to be small it must be kept in mind that many schools, especially private schools, colleges and universities, order in quantities; the sale-season, though short, is "snappy" and there is a minimum of danger only in accumulating "dead" stock. When you make a customer for school books, be he the school principal or pupil, you have a customer for other supplies as well and very often you form business friendships with the "book-lovers" of the future.

To aid the bookseller in this branch of his business, we publish yearly an up-to-date "Educational List" containing the titles of current school books and their prices, together with a classified index of subjects. This catalogue we supply at a very low rate in quantities with the dealer's own imprint on front page—cheap enough to warrant any bookseller distributing it among all the educational institutions in his territory.

TERMS FOR IMPRINT EDITIONS

100 Copies $5.00 500 Copies $22.50 1000 Copies $40.00
